Fear More Trapped
In Ferry Disaster

DESTREHAN, La. (UPI) — Twenty-two bodies were recovered from the ferryboat George Prince before it was refloated Thursday, but authorities said dozens may be entombed in their cars at the bottom of the Mississippi River.

Officials, who feared as many as 100 persons may have died, said at least another 56 persons were missing. Only 18 passengers survived the collision Wednesday between the ferryboat and a Norwegian tanker. The Coast Guard begins hearings late today into the cause of the collision.

Bolles Case Stalls;
Mistrial Declared

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Superior Court Judge Frederic Heineman declared a mistrial on grounds of "massive prejudicial publicity" in the case of John Adamson, who is charged with killing investigative reporter Don Bolles.

Heineman cited the public comments of Maricopa County Attorney Donald Harris, who said — while jury selection was going on — murder charges were near against a half-dozen other persons in the car-bomb slaying. He ordered a new trial by Dec. 20, then dismissed the 75 remaining prospective jurors.

Bellow Fears Fame
That Nobel Brings

CHICAGO (UPI) — Author Saul Bellow Thursday was named winner of the Nobel prize for literature, but acknowledged he feared the fame that goes along with the prize. "The child in me is delighted. The adult in me is skeptical," he said he was glad to win the prize "but I would have survived very well without it."

The author of "Humboldt's Gift," "Herzog," "The Adventures of Augie March" and other novels, said he intended to write at least one more nonfiction book but divulged no other plans, not even how he would spend his $155,000 award.

LIQUIDATED — The New China News Agency, China's official news agency announced the appointment of Hua Kuo-feng as new chairman of the Communist party Thursday, and said a plot by Mao Tse-tung's widow, Chiang Ching, and three other radical leaders to seize power had been crushed. The NCNA said the four had been "liquidated," but it was not clear what was meant by the term. Diplomatic analysts and intelligence sources said the best available information indicated the four were still alive, although one was believed to have been wounded.

McCarthy Removed
From N.Y. Ballot

ALBANY, N.Y. — State Supreme Court Justice John Pennock ruled today that independent candidate Eugene McCarthy should be removed from New York's presidential ballot.

Attorneys for McCarthy said they immediately began taking steps to appeal Pennock's decision to the Appellate Division of State Supreme Court. The state Democratic party had sought McCarthy's removal from the ballot.

Even before Pennock's decision was announced, lawyers for both sides said they would fight the case all the way to the Court of Appeals, the state's highest court.

The Pennock decision also removed from the ballot McCarthy's running mate, Terence J. Spencer.

Judges Rules Landowner Suffered No Loss

Vasilevich Damage Claim Denied

By LYNN MULVANEY
Freeman staff
KINGSTON — Town of Ulster landowner Michael S. Vasilevich, who sought $266,000 in damages from Kingston City School District because the school board decided not to purchase his $28,475-acre parcel, has lost the suit in Ulster County Supreme Court.

The damages, amounting to $204,000 plus $56,000 for rental of property plus appraisal and attorney's fees were part of a package of Vasilevich proposals made in order to agree to discontinuance of condemnation proceedings.

Supreme Court Justice Robert C. Williams ruled this week that the record shows Vasilevich did not intend to sell the property at any price to anyone else. On the contrary, it was clearly stated that the property was not for sale.

Judge Williams also pointed out that the court record shows that Vasilevich was aware prior to Aug. 1, 1975, that the school district intended to abandon the condemnation.

He ruled further that Vasilevich's contention that the property had decreased in value was not caused by the school district and ordered that counsel and appraiser fees be paid by Vasilevich.

Vasilevich claimed the property declined $142,000 in value since the school board announced plans to condemn it. He claimed he was prevented from selling it when the market was high.

The school district argued that Vasilevich's figures were based on speculation, that the school board did not damage the property and that Vasilevich had complete control of it. Attempts to take test borings on the property were denied by Vasilevich and the school board was never allowed to touch the property.

The school district was represented by Charles H. Gaffney and Francis T. Murray.

Gerald Evans, counsel of Vasilevich claimed the property was not his client's to dispose of since the condemnation proceedings were instituted and that notoriety concerning the building of a new school "made it difficult to dispose of the property." He sought a $3,500 monthly rental fee. Murray contended that no tenants were lost.

Alpha Cement Foresees
No Break in Shipments

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA
Freeman staff
CEMENTON — The Cementon plant of Alpha Portland Cement will be functioning normally in four to six weeks, is not closing down even temporarily, and has not missed a day of shipments to customers since last weekend's fire at the plant.

That was the assured comment this morning from William A. Brobston, chairman of the board of Alpha, who discounted workers' fears of a long shutdown.

"The very thought of closing this company's biggest investment is inconceivable," said Brobston. "This is the newest cement plant in the Hudson Valley, built in 1966, and we have no intention of shutting down a $25 million facility because of a fire in a switch gear."

A hard-hatted tour of the plant, at Brobston's invitation, by a Freeman reporter-photographer team today confirmed that fire damages had not kept business from going on pretty much as usual.

Alpha trucks were headed south along Route 9W, and—in the switch gear room, to which the fire had been confined—cleanup work was progressing rapidly.

"The damage was minor compared to the value of this plant," said Brobston, "and there is no thought of the plant being forced out of business."

Plant Manager Jerry L. McIntyre estimated the damage at approximately one-half million dollars. He said there had been no building damage as a result of the fire, and that normal operations would resume after four statos had been rewound and several circuit breaker panels had been replaced.

"It was not a good day for us when the fire started," said McIntyre, "but it was not as bad as reported."

In the switch gear room, most of which was still intact, Alpha employees were shoveling out, sweeping up, and scrubbing off smoke damage on the circuit breaker panels. It was mostly a cleanup operation, but four tall electrical panels had been removed and would have to be replaced.

Much of the equipment in the room had escaped the fire except for scorch damage and a gear box had been totally lost. Damage to the room's wall, a 30 by 200 foot barrier, had been confined to a 30 by six foot panel of translucent fibreglass windows.

Brobston said these had melted from the heat, had not been blown out by an explosion, and had already been patched. He also said switch gear room damage was being repaired "as fast as we can get the parts."

Alpha officials said the fire started because of a failure in one of four statos which run the 1500 horsepower motors on the raw and Lo Blane mills.

"Three of these are complete electrical failures due to the fire and must be rewound," said McIntyre. All four statos will be sent out for rewinding, he said, and should be returned to the plant in two weeks.

Citizenship Granted to 40 County Residents
They're Americans Today

By ROB BORSELLINO
Freeman Staff
KINGSTON — Instead of going to work yesterday, Miklos Habja went to the Ulster County Courthouse and became an American citizen.

"Why?" asked the native Hungarian, who was one of 40 persons who gained citizenship at yesterday's ceremonies. "Because this is America. This is the United States."

He thought a moment. "You must have been born here or you would not ask that question. I have been here five and a half years and I really love this country. I want to be a part of America."

As he spoke, Habja kept glancing at a piece of paper in his hand that certified him as a naturalized citizen. He smiled. "This is the bicentennial and I am an American."

Habja and the other new Americans had just heard State Supreme Court Judge William Murray encourage them to become involved in the political process and the American system of government.

"I cannot vote this year, but next year for sure,"

Emery Shiff, a veterinarian and also a native of Hungary, was not sure he had heard the question correctly.

"Will I vote next year? Of course I will vote. Why wouldn't I vote?"

It was explained to Shiff that some Americans don't vote because they don't like the candidates.

"When I compare the freedom here in America with the 'freedom' we had in Hungary, and you should put that second freedom in quote marks, I am more satisfied with this kind of an election and I will vote."

Most of the new citizens echoed Habja's sentiments saying they became citizens for no other reason than to be part of America.

"Is that not enough of a reason," asked an elderly man from Vietnam. His wife nodded in agreement.

Monica Struna, who has lived in the U.S. for over 20 years, had another reason.

"I want to see my parents in Austria and I had to become a citizen to get a passport."

Struna had particular praise for Mr. Stang of the Naturalization Board, who accompanied the new citizens to court and spoke on their behalf.

"Mr. Stang was very good to us," said Struna. "He took alot of time explaining things to some of the older people and the people who couldn't speak the language. They were nervous and some of them haven't been here very long. It was a good first impression of America."

Proceeds of 10-ton Cargo Sale Will Help Clean Hudson
Pumpkin-Laden Clearwater Docks

By SID LEAVITT
Freeman Staff
KINGSTON — The good sloop Clearwater pulled into Kingston today with 10 tons of pumpkins whose sale will help clean up the Hudson River.

The dockside pumpkin sale aboard the Clearwater, a symbol of the anti-pollution efforts of Hudson River Sloop Restoration Inc., will continue until 7 tonight.

Side attractions include a puppet show, cider press, other demonstrations, music provided by banjo-bearing crew members, and a husky-malemute dog named Sweetwater.

It's the Clearwater's sixth annual visit to Kingston, this year part of a 14-stop trip from Albany to New York City to market pumpkins for the cause.

The orange October fruit, stored on deck in bulging crates built from maple saplings, were picked up Monday in Hudson from area farmers who are friends of Hudson River Sloop Restoration Inc.

The group was started in the late 1960's by folk singer Pete Seeger to work toward restoration of the river and of non-polluting river commerce.

Clearwater, a 106-foot replica of the old Hudson River windships, is symbolic of an effort "to turn around the prevailing notion that the Hudson (is) the best available sewer in the Hudson River Valley," the group's promotional literature says.

Clearwater's seven crew members, led by captain Peter Wilcox, got a backbreaking surprise in Hudson when two classes of school children failed to show for the loading ceremonies in raw weather.

"The farmers stood on their trucks and tossed the pumpkins to us on board," one crew member said.

The trip ends seven days from now in New York City, when all the pumpkins should be gone. Meanwhile, the crew will dine heavily on pumpkin pie, pumpkin soup, pumpkin seeds and other seasonal fare.

"It's really very good," another crew member said.

School children will visit the Clearwater today from as far away as Saugerties and Onteora, viewing the lines and equipment of the sleek vessel that draws only seven feet of water with a full load of pumpkins.

The mast measures 86 feet to the top nest, then juts another 20 feet into the sky. Dockside is at the foot of Broadway on the Rondout Creek.

Onteora Hike Recommended

BOICEVILLE — A Public Employment Relations Board fact finder has recommended a 6.3 per cent salary increase for teachers in the Onteora school district.

Under the plan suggested by Joel M. Douglas of Mahopac, the PERB fact finder, annual pay increases to teacher (increments) would not be added to the 6.3 per cent flat increase for all teachers, but would be included within the 6.3 total boost.

Poughkeepsie attorney John Donoghue, the district's negotiator, and Dennis Cantagna, representing the Onteora Teachers Association, met Wednesday night to discuss details of the fact finder's plan. Another meeting will be arranged as soon as possible and negotiators will discuss the advisability of bringing in a PERB "super-conciliator" to help settle the dispute which has been going on since January.

Teachers have been working without a contract since June 30, when the old two-year pact expired.

Dr. Frank Marlow, superintendent of schools, was optimistic over the latest negotiations. "I think we are much closer to a settlement than we were before the Wednesday meeting," he told the Freeman Thursday.

Robert Barrette, OTA president, said the board was told that teachers would settle for the money package recommended by Douglas, but had reservations about all other items in dispute.

"The board's counterproposal was for three per cent plus increments for each of the next three years," he said.

Marlow said the recommended 6.3 per cent increase is "somewhat higher than most of the settlements in this area. Five or six districts in the county are unsettled, and I doubt if their settlements will be that high. Saugerties got 1.5 per cent plus increments."

Barrette differed with the superintendent. "In real money, the Saugerties settlement is greater than it looks because their increments are quite large—about $419 to our $250 — so in real money their settlement is closer to five per cent."

Speaking of Marlow's comment on other potential settlements, Barrette said: "The districts are trying to play the various teacher groups off against each other by telling the media that others will settle for less."

Other Douglas recommendations were for no increase in the present insurance package; establishment of a sick leave bank toward which the district would not contribute days (teachers now get 15 days annually and can accumulate up to 180); rejection of a teacher demand for guaranteed full employment and no layoff during the life of the contract; and another teacher demand for extension of the just cause dismissal clause to include non-tenured as well as tenured teachers.

Marlow said the last-mentioned item would take away the district's right to dismiss probationary teachers without cause and negate the concept of tenure.

Again Barrette disagreed. "Extending the just cause protection to non-tenured teachers would give them an explanation of why they were not being rehired."

"If the (reason for dismissal) doesn't deal directly with their teaching performance, they have the right to legal assistance," he said. "As it is now, the non-tenured teacher has no right to learn why he was dismissed."

Moynihan Not Coming

KINGSTON—Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate Daniel Patrick Moynihan will be unable to attend the City of Kingston Democrats' annual dinner-dance on Saturday night.

Moynihan had to beg off from his appearance in town due to a conflicting schedule.

Keynote speaker for Saturday's function will be Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey, D-10th Dist.

The dinner-dance, scheduled for the Walnut Grove, Field Court, also will honor Mrs. Florence Crosby and Orrie Riehl. The event will get underway at 7 p.m.

Sup. Greco Eager to Comply

Road Mileage Audit Sought

SAUGERTIES — The Ulster County Highway Department wants the Town of Saugerties to update its road mileage audit.

In the process of drawing up new highway maps for the county's 20 towns, engineers found a definite deficit of roads in Saugerties. Somehow, miles of roadways had been mislaid, if not mispaved, and ribbons of asphalt that showed up on county maps did not jibe with audit information.

Said the county's senior engineer, "Saugerties is maintaining many miles of road not listed on the audit of the New York State Department of Transportation. The town is being shortchanged."

If Saugerties wanted its fair share of state and federal highway money, the county advised, its mileage audit should be updated.

"If there is any means of my getting state or federal money," said Supervisor Frank Greco, "I'll try to get all I can." He promised to map out local roads and secure deeds, so reimbursement would be assured.

How many miles of roadway might be involved? "Thirty, at least," estimated town highway superintendent Al Ferrara.

Greco, who has a propensity for chiding previous administrations for their lethargy, was disbelieving, but willing to be convinced.

"Sure," said Ferrara, "the town hasn't done an audit of its roads since 1963. Some of those missing roads are in the newer housing subdivisions."

The only reaction to that was the fervent hope that the reimbursement would be retroactive over the last 13 years.

Saugerties Cuts Corner on Books

SAUGERTIES — In an economy move, the Saugerties Village Board has retained retired bookkeeper Odell Johnston to maintain its ledger books and prepare monthly financial reports, and has discontinued the services of Thomas Martin as auditor of the books.

The move was made on the recommendation of trustee Robert Lehmann, who has had considerable record-keeping experience. Lehmann had reviewed the service actually performed by Martin, who had been named official auditor of the books for the 1975-76 budget year that ended May 30, and said Martin was not auditing the books, but simply summarizing local financial figures on a dual entry system.

It was a superior system, he noted, but now that it had been successfully set up for the first quarter of the year, he felt clerk-treasurer Gerorgette Hughes with the parttime assistance of a bookkeeper, could handle the job with equal competence.

Lehmann said the cost of retaining Martin at $2,000 a year was an unnecessary expense. He urged that Martin be paid for work done to date and Johnston be hired to perform the same service at $4 an hour. He estimated the task of transposing figures from the source of entry to the ledger and preparing reports to the board would take Johnston only eight to 10 hours a month or less.

His services, said Lehmann, would cost the village only $50 monthly, compared with the $175 each month received by Martin, a qualified certified public accountant. He also said Martin would not be interested in continuing his work on a parttime basis, and expected to work the entire year or not at all.

"We don't need a CPA every month for what is essentially a bookkeeping, and not an auditing job," Lehmann said. "And, with the money we save, we can have a regular audit each year by Martin, who is committed to that job, and has set up an excellent double entry system we can now maintain at minimum expense."

The system is "simple enough," Lehmann said, that clerk-treasurer Hughes could do the job alone, if time allowed. But he felt it in the best interests of the village and the board to retain Johnston for several hours a month and not put the full burden on Hughes, who is competent and could do the job, but has enough work already.

Johnston, whose retired status will allow him to work with Hughes during daytime hours, was hired at a salary not to exceed $600 a year. Under the new arrangement, the clerk-treasurer will do the bookkeeping, and Johnston will maintain the ledger and make a monthly financial report to the board. He will also prepare quarterly reports for the first nine months and special, itemized, monthly reports for the last three months of the year.

United Way Hits $35,753

KINGSTON — Pledges to the United Way of Ulster County at the end of the third week of the 1976 campaign totaled $35,753, about 8 per cent of the $401,000 goal.

Returns are normally slow in the first weeks of the annual campaign, a spokesman said. The curve rises more sharply when pledges from business and employ groups are reported in later weeks.

The campaign runs to Nov. 6.

Meanwhile, the United Way also reported Wednesday that well-known Woodstock artist John Pike has donated a watercolor to the campaign. The painting, depicting a Catskill winter, is on exhibit at the United Way office in the Governor Clinton Hotel, where donations toward it will be accepted. The winner will be chosen in February.

The campaign's retail division and other divisions still need volunteers, especially for canvassing. Help also is needed in the Marbletown area.

Y Gym Dedication Set Oct. 31

KINGSTON — The YMCA's new gymnasium complex will be publicly dedicated Oct. 31 at 2:30 p.m. in ceremonies at 507 Broadway, building committee chairman Christus J. Larios has announced.

Ceremonies will include selections by a combined choir from the Kingston and John A. Coleman High Schools, as well as a brief presentation by a group of the YMCA's gymnasts.

Greetings will be extended by County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago, Kingston Mayor Francis R. Koenig, and by David Dittman, president of the United Way of Ulster County.

YMCA Trustee Howard C. St. John will lead a litany of dedication.

Directed tours of the new facilities will follow and refreshments will be served.

"We're particularly anxious that those who contributed to this community project will now take the time to observe firsthand the results of their generosity," Larios said in an invitation to the public.

Out-of-Turn Talk Nulls Bolles Trial

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — The trial of John Adamson on charges of murdering investigative reporter Don Bolles will have to start all over again because a prosecutor talked too much out of court.

A judge declared a mistrial Thursday on grounds of "massive prejudicial publicity" caused by the public comments of Maricopa County Attorney Donald Harris, who said — while jury selection was going on — murder charges were near against a half-dozen other persons in the car-bomb slaying.

Gov. Raul Castro, simultaneously with the mistrial ruling, dismissed Harris, head of the prosecution team, from any further connection with the trial. He also took the case away from Maricopa County authorities and placed it under "exclusive control" of the state attorney general.

Superior Court Judge Frederic Heineman, agreeing with a defense motion that Adamson could not get a fair trial because of publicity, announced his surprise ruling at a hurriedly called 10-minute hearing and ordered a new trial by Dec. 20. He then dismissed the 75 remaining prospective jurors.

Adamson, 32, a thick-set, poker-faced dog breeder and former tow truck operator who wears dark glasses and moved in wheeler-dealer circles, smiled faintly as the judge announced his ruling.

Special Prosecutor William Schafer, who will continue in the case, surprised courtroom spectators by agreeing with the mistrial motion by chief defense attorney William Feldhacker.

"The state agrees with the defense motion for a mistrial because of recent public statements by Don Harris, Maricopa County attorney, about the Adamson case," Schafer said. "The state feels that the possibility of reversal on appeal is too great to proceed to trial at this time."

Castro dismissed Harris on the recommendation of Arizona Attorney General Bruce Babbitt, who said "irreparable damage may be caused unless Mr. Harris is removed from the case and related matters immediately."

Harris, who told the news media three days ago that he was close to indicting a half-dozen other persons, including members of "the country club set," as conspirators in the murder of the prize-winning Arizona Republic newsman, said he did not think Castro had the authority to remove him from the case.

Bolles, 47, a father of seven, was fatally injured June 2 when a bomb blew up his car at a hotel where he had gone after getting a false tip about a land deal that an informant said involved Sen. Barry Goldwater and Rep. Sam Steiger, a candidate for the U.S. Senate.

The reporter, who was nominated for a Pulitzer Prize in 1965 and frequently wrote articles exposing organized crime, wrong-doing politicians and land fraud, lost both legs and an arm, and died 11 days later.

Radar Lapse Nearly Led to Collision

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Aviation Administration says a breakdown in communications between radar controllers led to a near collision between an Eastern Airlines jet and an Air Force cargo plane last Sunday.

The pilot of the Eastern plane, which was approaching Washington's National Airport with 67 persons aboard, estimated the Air Force C130 turboprop came within "no more than 200 feet above us" — so close the propeller vibration could be felt in the airliner cockpit.

The Air Force plane with a crew of five had just taken off from Andrews Air Force Base, east of Washington, en route to Rochester, N.Y. The two craft passed at 4,600 feet, about eight miles northeast of National.

Flight rules call for planes to maintain separation of 1,000 feet vertically and three miles horizontally while in the vicinity of airports.

An FAA spokesman Thursday said a controller handling the C130 apparently sent it into the airspace jurisdiction of another controller without giving any advance notice.

Carter Aides Say New Poll Gives Him 6% Lead

By UPI

President Ford and Jimmy Carter — who meet in their final debate tonight — changed the campaign pace momentarily late Thursday and each poked fun at himself and the other.

Ford told the Al Smith Memorial Dinner for Catholic Charities in New York — an annual affair stressing good fellowship and good humor — that he has installed a new lock at the White House which is "Jimmy proof."

"It's always good to come back to Philadelphia," Ford told his Manhattan audience — a reference to his recent remark at Iowa State University that it was "nice to be in Ohio State."

Carter, arriving after Ford left, had written a speech calling for him to say "it's great to be in Chicago." Learning Ford had stolen his line, he said, "It's a great pleasure to be in..." — he paused in a thoughtful frown, then beamed — "New York!"

Carter said Cardinal Terence Cooke of New York "gave me some good advice — If I ever give another interview on the biblical sins of pride and lust, it will be to a reporter from 'Our Sunday Visitor.'"

Ford's New York appearance was the start of 13 days of campaign travel that will keep him on the road through election day.

Sources in the Carter campaign said Carter leads Ford 47 per cent to 41 per cent in a Gallup Poll coming out today. And a Carter aide said no candidate with a lead as big as his, this late in a presidential campaign, has ever lost.

Carter, talking to reporters in Plains, Ga., criticized a Ford newspaper ad showing two magazine covers — Newsweek with a picture of Ford on the front, and Playboy with a picture of a seductive young woman and a headline flagging attention to Carter's Playboy interview.

"I think it's a highly misleading sort of advertising campaign to insinuate that I'm a special case and have low morals simply because I granted an interview with Playboy magazine," Carter said.

"But Mr. Ford made the decision to do it, and I personally don't believe that it will help him any."

Carter said Ford knows Playboy has interviewed many prominent people, including his own Treasury Secretary, William Simon.

Sen. Robert Dole told a GOP rally in Lafayette, La., that "we're not writing off the South but the South is writing off Gov. Carter."

The GOP vice presidential nominee said Carter had been "ahead in the South by 40 points" but "now we're ahead by two or three points and we're going to win."

Sen. Walter Mondale told a group of elderly persons in Everett, Wash., that Ford is trying to repeal Medicare slowly. The Democratic presidential nominee criticized a Ford administration proposal to raise monthly premiums and deductible amounts under Medicare.

"The cruelest thing you could do in America is to raise the medical bills of senior citizens," Mondale said. "That's just about as mean spirited as you can be. That's just about the ultimate. That kind of person would steal crutches." Maine Gov. James B. Longley, the nation's only independent governor, endorsed Ford. "I do not feel this is the time to change a known for an unknown," Longley said.

State Workers Get Shots

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — State workers in Albany in a "high risk" category will begin getting swine flu vaccinations Monday, the Civil Service Department announced Thursday.

Vaccinations for high-risk workers in other areas and schedules for regular vaccinations will also be announced later, a spokesman said.

He said workers at Department of Mental Health facilities and Department of Correctional Services institutions would get their shots there.

Workers who want the shots must have signed authorizations from their doctors, the spokesman said.

Shots in Albany will be given at nurses stations near the workers' places of employment, the spokesman said.

High-risk workers are those over 65 or with chronic breathing or heart problems. They will get bivalent vaccine for both swine and A-victoria flu.

Never to vote for any other area at the expense of Ulster County for instance:

1. I would not have voted for $24 million for the City College of New York and then voted against aid for upstate community colleges—as my opponent did;
2. I would not have voted for $10 million to subsidize a rent strike in The Bronx with no similar rent subsidies for Ulster—as my opponent did;
3. I would not have voted for $285 million for New York City building projects through the Urban Development Corporation while Ulster County building trades starve. "Ulster County will not be a sixth borough of New York City while I'm in office."

HONESTY IN GOVERNMENT—I Propose:

To cut through the campaign smokescreen. I will not vote for nor accept any lulus. I will not say one thing and do another. No one should tolerate an office-holder who doesn't keep his word.

AARP Cheers Law and Order Stand

By CHAZY DOWALIBY
Freeman Staff

KINGSTON — Coming on strong for law, order and a return to the death penalty, the Republican challenger for the 101st Assembly District seat won a big round of applause from some 125 senior citizens at a candidates night in Kingston Thursday.

Ellenville businessman Maurice Rosenstock told the attentive and demanding meeting of the American Association of Retired persons (AARP) that the country and the county needs to "stop being soft on criminals."

"When my daddy spanked my little behind I thought twice about doing something wrong again," said Rosenstock, who also advocated holding parents accountable for the crimes of their children, publishing the names of juvenile offenders and strict enforcement of existing laws.

Incumbent Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey, who is seeking re-election to his second term in Albany, took a more philosophical stand on crime and punishment.

He urged the elderly, who have been particularly hard hit by the rising rate in violent crimes, to recall their Judeo-Christian ethic of "Thou shalt not kill" in re-thinking the death penalty and urged social and economic reforms to get people back to work, provide them with better housing and eliminate the need for resorting to crime.

The two men have met a number of times during the past month to exchange their political thinking, but AARP moderator George Holmes maintained a structured meeting that kept both candidates strictly to the points in question.

Among those issues raised was the question of the state's rising welfare costs. Hinchey advocated major reform in the Medicaid program, which he sees as the area of greatest abuse in the system.

Rosenstock would like to see a tougher policy on work requirements for homelief recipients, reduction of the rates of compensation allowed by the state to welfare recipients and a federal standard set for welfare benefits that would be administered by local governments.

Hinchey told the group of his work in developing a program which would bring more doctors in to mid-Hudson Valley, where they are badly needed and in association with the development of a clinical campus medical school program in this area "the most significant thing that has happened in health care, he said in recent memory.

Both men agreed that the state's automobile insurance companies had regulatory agencies need investigation in light of the skyrocketing costs of insurance in the past few years.

Rosenstock told the group that the state's major problem was an ever-shrinking tax base caused by industry leaving the state, creating a situation "where we can't afford to pay our taxes and live in our homes anymore."

Recent published reports indicate that the Republican challenger has paid little more than $7.00 per year taxes on his $50,000 home in Ellenville because of a federal veteran's exemption he has had for a number of years.

Hinchey has refused to apply for veteran's exemption for his taxable property in Saugerties.

Also presenting their qualifications to the AARP were the county treasurer candidates: Conservative Lewis Krishner and Republican Harold Finkle.

The two responded in like manner to the only question put to them. When moderator Holmes asked if they would inform the public if the county legislature began spending money irresponsibly, both contenders agreed it would be their duty to "go public" with any inkling of fiscal mismanagement.

both did before the earlier confrontations.

"I'm having to do less studying of statistics and history since I've covered the gamut of domestic and defense and foreign affairs in preparation for the first two debates," Carter said. "I feel good about it."

Presidential press secretary Ron Nessen said Ford would study some briefing papers Friday afternoon but had no plans to change his debating style. "He'll be himself and answer the questions," Nessen said.

The setting is William and Mary's Phi Beta Kappa Hall and a stage barren except for the same two podiums, two chairs and the panel's table used in the first two encounters.

An audience of about 500 persons, about half, journalists and half Women's League of Voters' guests, will attend. The ground rule for them is to maintain respectful silence.

The auditorium seats have been oiled, lest they squeak.

pled stators in the mammoth downstairs workshop, the Freeman team passed the power center, still intact and operating under full power.

McIntyre said power had been restored by Central Hudson Gas & Electric company early Monday morning.

"They moved heaven and earth to get us started," added Brobston, "working all day Sunday and Sunday night, after the early Sunday morning fire."

Brobston said reports that Alpha and Central Hudson were at loggerheads were erroneous.

"We are getting 100 per cent cooperation from Central Hudson," he said, pointing skyward to where several utilities company employees were working on the towering transformer.

Brobston reiterated that the plant "will never miss a day's shipment," waving a hand toward the huge silo from which stored cement was being transferred to company trucks, which make 90 runs a day to Hartford and Albany in summer, and 25 runs in winter.

Any worries or fears by Alpha workers that the fire damage might force a permanent shut-down, he said, had been allayed "Our employees have been notified of our intentions to return to full operation at the earliest possible time," Brobston noted.

Landmarks Has Ordinance Fact Sheet

KINGSTON — The Kingston Landmarks Preservation Commission has come up with a new ordinance fact sheet and a construction review committee to work more closely with property owners in the historic uptown stockade area.

The fact sheet, a one-page summary of important points from the longer Stockade ordinance, will be distributed through the office of the city's new building inspector, William G. Hayman, who joined the KLPC at its monthly meeting Thursday night.

The KLPC has final approval over any exterior work done on buildings in the Stockade Area, a nine-block area roughly corresponding with the stockade built in early colonial days by Dutch governor Peter Stuyvesant.

A common administrative problem, Chairman George V. Hutton said, is that the KLPC too often winds up supplying designs for renovation work:

"We shouldn't be a design service," he said.

However, the importance of preliminary and advisory meetings with property owners was stressed by member Derek St. John and former commission chairman Fred J. Johnston, who said the KLPC has to come up with some kind of alternatives for "asinine" designs.

Hutton named a three-member committee to hold "timely" meetings and review sessions with property owners undertaking construction — Sandra Smith, chairman, St. John and himself.

In other business, the KLPC:

• Reviewed designs for a dining terrace behind the Hoffman House on North Front near Green Street, an historic building being converted to a restaurant.

Candidates Spending More

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With no campaign spending ceilings on congressional races, Senate candidates this year are spending almost $4 million more than two years ago, according to a Common Cause study.

In fact, the activist lobby reported that three of the senatorial candidates exceeded the $1 million mark in expenditures a month before the balloting.

Leading the parade on that score is Rep. John Heinz Jr., a Republican running for the Senate in Pennsylvania. Heinz, heir to the H.J. Heinz and Co. fortune, spent $1.8 million, including $1.5 million out of his own pocket.

The Common Cause study noted that Heinz' $1.5 million was more than any other candidate raised in 1974 — or so far in 1976 — from his or her contributors combined.

Lack of More Impressive Men the Main Theme

BRUSSELS, Belgium (UPI) — Archbishop Makarios, the president of Cyprus, openly supports Jimmy Carter for the presidency of the United States.

A Tel Aviv newspaper says the weight of the Israeli government has been thrown behind President Ford.

The Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia are angry with both candidates, Poland is angry with Ford and officially Western Europe is taking a neutral position.

But the predominant reaction in Europe to the U.S. presidential campaign, both in newspapers and in comments from ordinary citizens, is dismay that the country has not produced two more impressive candidates.

"America is beginning to teach us Europeans to be afraid," commented the Deutsche Zeitung, a conservative West German weekly. "Whoever wins the Nov. 2 presidential election ... will find deep-seated doubt among America's overseas allies concerning his foreign policy abilities...."

The Paris newspaper L'Aurore echoed this sentiment: "How can this country, the most powerful in the world, the most liberal regime, the most genuine democracy, come to offer its 220 million inhabitants ... a choice between two men so average, so dull, so stark and stiff in conformity? Does primacy of the mind remain a prerogative of the Old Continent?"

The doubts about Ford and Carter have surfaced mainly since their foreign policy debate.

But Makarios, who has long felt the Ford administration was hostile to his government, told a visiting group of foreign newsmen he had no doubts.

"The outcome of the elections will affect us very much," he said. "But we will be better off if Carter wins."

In Greece, where there is also strong resentment of U.S. policy in the Cyprus crisis of 1974, friends of Premier Constantine Caramanlis say "Greece would feel better if a Democratic administration made it this time."

The Greek government has postponed signing of an agreement with the United States on the status of American bases because of arguments by opposition leaders that this could be interpreted as support for Ford.

Doubts about the two have surfaced mainly since their foreign policy debate.

But in Israel, Ford's recent decision to supply advanced American weaponry to Israeli armed forces prompted the mass-circulation Yedioth Aharonoth to comment that the weight of the Israeli government has been thrown behind the Republican candidate.

Other newspapers said Ford's decision appeared to be aimed at winning the Jewish vote.

Rina Goldner, 26, an agronomist from Rehovot, Israel, who specializes in peanuts, said she saw little difference between Ford and Carter. "Both will support Israel," she said.

Cairo newspapers have avoided comment on the campaign, but an Arab League spokesman took exception to comments by the candidates criticizing the Arab boycott of Israel.

The boycott "will continue as a legitimate act of self-defense," he said.

Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, said both candidates are "overstepping the line" in their foreign policy statements and Soviet people are "outraged."

Pravda particularly took Ford to task for his meeting with East European emigres in the White House, and said his remarks on that occasion were similar to statements made by the Democratic party nominee.

Polish Communist leader Edward Giersek, bristling over Ford's remarks to the emigres, said Poland is politically independent and needs no lessons "on the issues of independence and sovereignty" from those "wearing the robes of spokesman for democracy."

Other comment on the campaign:

Italy — Rome's Il Messaggero said, "The most recurrent comment of the man in the street is that neither Jerry Ford nor Jimmy Carter so far has proved to have the qualities needed to lead that great republic."

Carter generally has been given more sympathetic coverage in Italian newspapers, which are predominantly left-leaning, because of his statement that a Communist entry into an Italian government would not be a disaster.

Britain — Government spokesmen say nothing official but privately there is some concern over Carter "because we don't know him and we don't know who would be his secretary of state... While there's not a lot between the two candidates and the platforms, at least we know Ford and we know Kissinger."

West Germany — Ernst Majonica, an author and a foreign policy adviser for the Christian Democrats in the 1960s, said, "Both candidates have no great foreign policy experience or conceptions." He criticized Ford's statement that Eastern Europe is not under Soviet domination and Carter's statement that he would cut the U.S. defense budget while trying to follow a hard line toward Moscow.

France — Mrs. Jeanne Singer, an economic specialist at the University of Paris, said, "Ford does not seem to have the stature of a great man. Carter is unknown, so in that sense he would be better."

Scandinavia — Oslo newspapers have expressed concern that the United States "cannot produce two better candidates."

Ulf Wideen, a Stockholm shopkeeper, said, "If I had to choose between the two guys I'd pick Carter. He's as qualified as Ford and I think he's more clever and intellectual."

Switzerland — A leading banker said the Swiss feel "there will be no radical change in U.S. monetary or economic policy whoever wins."

The influential Journal de Geneve, criticizing Carter's response to Ford's statement on Eastern Europe, said the Democratic candidate "knows just what is required to be elected. But to lead America in the nuclear era requires other qualities."

The Radicals Are Doomed In China

HONG KONG (UPI) — The frontal attack is rarely used in Chinese political struggles.

When it is employed, the battle usually is already won. Oblique attack or innuendo are the tactics normally used by both sides in most of the power struggles that the public sees.

The current campaign to crush radical elements in the Communist party leadership is no exception.

Nobody's name has been mentioned in any official reports made public. But almost all of the 800 million or more millions of people began parading through Shanghai streets, shouting abuse against Chiang Ching and her three radical cohorts, whose power base was Shanghai.

The frontal attack was being used for the first time. Wall posters plastered on buildings throughout the city listed scores of alleged antiparty activities of the four radicals. These ranged from undermining or changing Mao's directives to plotting his murder even when he was on his deathbed.

Posters pictured the four in most unflattering ways.

The four had been defeated. The frontal attack was being used to justify their purge and destroy their power base. Who would come to their aid when there was such an outpouring of support, no matter how organized and controlled?

When Shanghai is secure, the campaign probably will spread, but on a lesser scale, to other parts of the country. Then there should be some official word.

And, if the patterns of the past are followed, some or all of the radical leaders will be attacked directly for a long time to come.

On Sept. 29, 1779, John Paul Jones, in the refitted French vessel renamed the Bonhomme Richard (in honor of Benjamin Franklin's "Poor Richard"), engaged the British 44-gun Serapis off the east coast of England. He captured and boarded the ship as his own vessel sank. The World Almanac recalls Jones' famous words to the British captain of the Serapis when asked "Do you ask for quarter?" were "I have not yet begun to fight!"

Rumors began to spread in Peking, and then in Hong Kong, that Mrs. Mao and the radicals might be in trouble. They were. And foreign correspondents in Peking, quoting diplomatic analysts, soon said so in their reports to the outside world.

In China, official silence was maintained but media reports and speeches hailing the central committee's "wise" and "important" decisions soon began to denounce people who "betray" Mao, "tamper" with his directives and create "splits" in the party.

Any doubts about who these people were disappeared when

Gateway Launches 'Greater Integration of the Deaf Into Community'

KINGSTON—The non-deaf are being taught to communicate with the deaf in a new class being sponsored by

Gateway Industries Inc. The program, taught by the Rev. Joseph Nolen of Mt. St. Alphonsus Seminary and his assistant, the Rev. John Vargas, uses a combination of methods including sign language, lip or speechreading, mime and pantomime and sound and speech training.

A major goal, Father Nolen said, is "greater integration of the deaf into the community."

Job opportunities for the deaf would be greatly improved if every business and public office had at least one person able to communicate with and interpret for a deaf person, Father Nolen said. Social benefits for the deaf and non-deaf also would be great, he said. The 12-session class meets Tuesday nights at Gateway.

The 20 current members include Gateway staff, Children's Rehabilitation Center personnel and parents of deaf children. The idea was conceived by David Palla, assistant director of Gateway, as a way to keep deaf children in their home community, not send them away to schools. The deaf child shouldn't be an outcast, Father Nolen said. Similar programs are underway at other places in Ulster and Dutchess Counties — weekly religious services at the Church of the Sacred Heart, a class for communication disorders at St. Francis Hospital in Poughkeepsie, several television programs with interpretation for the deaf, and the Mt. St. Alphonsus storefront location in Kingston, scheduled to open soon.

4th Graders Hold Mock Election

ELLENVILLE — Mrs. Lungen's fourth grade class at the Ellenville Central School is holding its own Ford-Carter presidential campaign and election.

Students are planning each candidate's national campaign in a microcosm with campaign chairmen, posters and buttons. Debates will be held and voting booths set up.

Right now, each child is registering to vote and learning about the electoral process of the United States. The student election will be held prior to Nov. 2 so that results can be compared with the actual national vote.

"The campaign rhetoric will be simplified," a school spokesman said.

HALLOWEEN... Its Origins, Superstitions And Traditional Celebrations

Ghouls, goblins, ghosts, and witches cast their spells upon all less frightening spirits every Halloween, as millions of people partake in this traditional holiday by carrying four leaf clovers, avoiding ladders, and preparing for the joyful onslaught of the neighbor's small-fry contingent.

Halloween was originally a Druid festival in honor of Samhain, Lord of the Dead. Its pagan origins and rites were in direct contradiction to the Christian celebration of All Hallows Eve, which was initiated much later in the fourth century. But the church chose to honor its dead on this particular day because it was already associated in the popular mind with a thronging of spirits — though, ironically, Halloween spirits have always been "at war" with the souls of the church.

Many superstitions, especially those pertaining to Halloween, are derived from what seemed more than logical to the person of the Middle Ages. Today, superstitions are more fun than fears, but some have fascinating origins that should never be forgotten.

For instance, the colors of orange and black that have come to symbolize Halloween stand for the harvest season and for the celebration of the dead.

There are many stories as to why the number 13 has become so dreaded throughout the world. The two most acceptable are that there were 13 persons at the Last Supper (Jesus and the 12 Apostles), and that all local witches' covens have 13 members (12 witches and the Devil).

Knocking on wood is associated with the cross. Not only do many people consider knocking on wood a lucky practice, but many churches around the world cherish pieces of wood that they believe might have come from the cross of Christ or that symbolize it.

Another lucky symbol, the four leaf clover, was said to have been taken by Eve from the Garden of Eden to always remind her of the happiness she found there.

Horseshoes are said to be lucky because it was believed that witches feared horses and a horseshoe at the door of the house would scare the witch away.

Walking under a ladder is bad luck, they say, because the ladder leaning against the wall forms a triangle, and to walk through it is a defiance of a sacred religious symbol.

The black cat is a familiar bad luck symbol and if one crosses your path on Halloween—watch out! Actually, cats were thought to be companions and familiars of witches, sometimes even transformed witches themselves. Medieval Europeans burned black cats alive on Halloween (after burning humans was outlawed) as a sign of the destruction of evil.

Lights and torches have always been burned to frighten away supernatural beings. The Jack O'Lantern, carved out of a rutabaga in Scotland and Ireland, was set on every doorstep on Halloween, its grotesque face lit by a candle, for this very reason. The legend of Jack, who outwitted the Devil once too often and was left to wander eternally between Heaven and Hell with only a coal-lit pumpkin to guide him, is a fittingly scary story for Halloween.

In the Highlands, on the last day of October, the children go forth to gather dry ferns and branches for fires. The gleanings are piled on the highest spot near the house and the fire is lit. Whole districts are bathed in the glow, various households vying with one another to have the biggest blaze — thus keeping the most goblins away.

Folks have always gathered together for feasting and games on Halloween. The adults nibble on nuts and apples, traditional Halloween fare, and sip Drambuie or any of the other romantic liqueurs such as Peter Heering from Denmark, Tia Maria from the island of Jamaica or Napoleon's favorite cognac, Courvoisier. They exchange Halloween legends and stories in whispers, while the children spend the evening playing games of divination.

These games, the outcome of which predict the future, were supposed to be guided by the fairies that abound on this night. Scottish and Irish children brought them to America, where today they survive most notably in the pastime of ducking for apples. In the original game each apple was marked with the name of a playmate. The apple that one ducked out of the water foretold future marriage commitments.

Other games of divination played by European children included putting pairs of nuts named for two "lovers" on the hearth. If both burned evenly, then their union would be happy. If one or both cracked or jumped into the fire the couple would quarrel and separate. If one caught on fire and the other didn't, then one person would love madly and the other would be rejected.

A typical Halloween divination cake would have a ring, key, thimble, penny and button baked into it, foretelling marriage, a journey, spinsterhood, wealth and bachelorhood for the children who found them in their slices.

"Trick-or-treat" has its origins back with the Druids, who visited farmers to collect money for the gods. If the farmer gave he would prosper; if not he would reap vengeance. Irish children would collect contributions for Muck Olla, a doubtfully existent god. In England, even today, "soulers" walk through the streets singing and begging to remember the souls in Purgatory. If you contribute they say an extra prayer for your dead relatives. Soul cakes — buns decorated with currants — fill bakers shops.

Soul cakes adapted from early English recipes make delicate party buns with a Halloween authenticity. Here is a modern version of an old Shropshire formula to be served at Halloween parties. Serve them hot with lambswool — a Halloween drink consisting of milk to which roasted crushed apples and an ounce of Drambuie are added — the milk for goodness, the apples for harvest, the liqueur to celebrate!

SOUL CAKES

6 cups sifted flour
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup sugar
1 envelope active dry yeast
1/4 cup lukewarm water
1 egg white, slightly beaten
1 tsp. sugar
1 1/2 cups milk
3 tsp. Drambuie
4 tsp. cinnamon
2 tsp. salt
1/8 tsp. nutmeg

Cream butter and 1/2 cup sugar. Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water to which a teaspoon of sugar has been added. Set aside. Scald milk and add to creamed mixture. When cool, add yeast mixture and blend thoroughly. Sift together flour, salt, spices and Drambuie, and add to mixture. Knead into soft dough. Set dough to rise in a warm place in a greased, covered pan. When doubled in bulk shape into small round, oval or square buns. Brush tops with egg white. Bake at 400 degrees F for 15 minutes, then drop to 350 degrees F and bake until brown. (18-24 cakes)

BEANS OF THE DEAD

A gruesome appellation perhaps, but popular in many countries and a perfect "trick-or-treat" offering. 1/2 cup sugar
3 tbs. butter
1/2 cup finely ground almonds
orange and black food coloring
1 egg
2 tbs. flour
1 tbs. grated lemon rind

Combine sugar, butter and almonds. Beat egg and add, mixing thoroughly. Add flour, lemon rind and food coloring, orange to half the mixture, black to the other half. Work dough until smooth and form into two rolls about 1 1/2 inches in diameter. Wrap in waxed paper and refrigerate two to three hours. Then cut off bits of the dough and mold into 1-inch bean shapes. Bake on greased cookie sheet at 350 degrees F, 15 to 20 minutes. Cool five minutes (24 beans).

This pair of English "soulers" are enjoying a variation of Old English "soul-cakes" at a Halloween celebration.

Halloween Happenings Announced; Haunted House, Carnival, Socials Set

KINGSTON—Several Halloween Happenings have been announced for local areas including a party for Kingston children at the Rondout Neighborhood Center, Sunday, Oct. 31, 6 to 8 p.m. Costume awards will be made, games will be played and gifts of candy, cider and doughnuts will be distributed.

Maria will hold a halloween carnival for all elementary school students at St. Mary's Hall, 20 North St., Kingston, Saturday, Oct. 30, 1 to 4 p.m., again with costume prizes, games and food. Proceeds will be for the new hall. General admission is 50 cents.

Jaycees in Saugerties have created an Haunted House at the Saugerties United Methodist Church. This will be open this Saturday and Sunday, 2 to 5 and 7 to 9 p.m.; Tuesday and Thursday, Oct. 26 and 28, 7 to 9 p.m. and next Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 30 and 31, 2 to 5 and 7 to 9 p.m. Admission is 50 cents.

Curfew for Kingston children on Halloween is 8 p.m.

Fresh Fruit for Halloween Fun

KINGSTON—Ugly witches, haunted houses and spooky goblins may fail to do their scariest on Halloween, and there's always the aspect of the lore-filled celebration of treats, many less-than-nutritious snacks.

Conjure up the best Halloween ever by serving versatile fresh fruit at parties when the youngsters return from their trick-or-treat expeditions. Besides, the earliest Halloween celebrants the Romans and Druids, always marked the occasion by eating apples and nuts, so they are authentic Halloween foods.

Apple bobbing is synonymous with Halloween, and this year provide another type of dunking — a fresh fruit fondue. Youngsters will delight in cut-up apples, pears, bananas and melon dipped in melted chocolate or plunked into fluffy whipped cream. Or how about a fun grab bag with fresh fruit prizes?

Jack-o-lanterns are another Halloween staple. Stage a contest offering a prize for the best cut-out pumpkin, the scariest, the funniest. Youngsters can make their jack-o-lanterns at home and bring them to the party, making a festive display.

Have a big bowl of apples, oranges, pears, and bananas and let the youngsters pick favorites. Unshelled nuts is an interesting and nutritious snack.

Apples are a detergent and sortment of supply nutrients, including B vitamins and ascorbic acid. Cranberries supply a good amount of vitamin C and can be used in a variety of cookies, cakes and treats.

Helpful Hints For a Safe Halloween Holiday

KINGSTON—Helpful hints for safe treating on Halloween are suggested by Louise K. Breitung, Cooperative Extension Home Economist.

Trick or treating should be done within the children's own neighborhood by calling on homes of people they know. If possible they should start out before dark and if they go after dark, they should carry a flashlight and visit only houses with outside lights on. Young children should not go trick or treating unless accompanied by an older friend, brother, sister or parent.

Children are advised to bring home all treats for inspection before eating. Accept only candy or gum treats which are wrapped and sealed.

Good, safe commercially produced chocolate candy is manufactured by well-known companies that package individually wrapped bite size, junior or miniature bars in sealed polyplastic bags. These packages, available in any supermarket, are always popular, but especially so at Halloween for safe treating.

KINGSTON—A solution for temporarily flameproofing Halloween costumes is suggested by the cooperative extension home economists: Mix 3 ounces of boric acid, 7 ounces of borax, and two quarts of water. Saturate fabric or costume and allow to drip dry. The materials will resist fire until washed or wet by rain.

DEAR ABBY

Be a Friend and Say 'No' to Cigarette Bummer

DEAR ABBY: A man in our office was told by his doctor to quit smoking. (Heart, emphysema and asthma.) Well, this guy decided that the best way to quit smoking was to quit BUYING cigarettes, and that's our problem.

He buys cigarettes from every smoker he sees, and I don't mean just one cigarette. Yesterday I gave him six, and several others in the office contributed, too.

It's awfully hard to turn down a guy who asks for a cigarette, but I'm fed up with his bumming. If he's going to smoke, don't you think he should buy his own?

Nobody in this office has the nerve to tell him—including me. Any suggestions?—CHICKEN

DEAR CHICKEN: If a diabetic asked you for sugar, would you give it to him? And would you give an alcoholic a drink? The cigarette bummer desperately needs support from his coworkers to help him to quit his habit. Be a friend and say no.

DEAR ABBY: My fiancé is 28 and I am 25. Jeff's friends are having a stag party for him, and from what I hear about the plans, it is going to be very exciting. They're having stag films, and a girl is going to jump out of a big cake!

In days gone by, all the bride got was a lot of boring showers, but my girlfriends want to change all that. They're planning a "bachelor girls' party" with films just like the men's, and a guy jumping out of a cake. I think it's a neat idea, but Jeff is against it.

I think his objections are unfair. What do you think?—ALL FOR EQUALITY

DEAR ALL FOR: Of course, Jeff's objections are unfair. Just be sure all the "girls" know what to expect in case Granny or Aunt Matilda have weak hearts—or stomachs.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for seven years, and we are very happy. We know other couples who have been married about the same length of time, and they aren't at all happy. In fact, they fight a lot.

The secret to our happiness is one simple rule we follow: Treat each other like a human being FIRST, like a man or a woman SECOND, like a husband or wife THIRD.

This has worked for us. It may for others, too.—STILL HONEYMOONERS

DEAR HONEY-MOONERS: If you can make a rule that works for seven years work for seven times seven, you've got it made. Good luck.

19th Century Opera Ball Slated at Ancram Opera House

ANCRAM—It has been ten years since two young entrepreneurs with a dream arrived in Ancram from New York City and began a transformation that has heightened the small Columbia County town's impact regionally.

Purchased by John-Peter Hayden Jr. and Donald Hayden were several buildings that reeked of Victorian promise, and the New York City socialites founded the Gotham Light Opera Guild, the Johann Strauss Atheneum, the Oliver House, Simons General Store with quality Victorian-era merchandise, Vauxhall, and the good will of their neighbors with dedicated enthusiasm.

The Tenth Anniversary of the founding of the Gotham Light Opera Guild will be celebrated under the glittering chandeliers of the Ancram Opera House with a 19th Century Opera Ball Oct. 23, with Helen Merritt to entertain with selections by Franz Lehar and Robert Stolz, with string ensemble.

The opera ball, held annually in Ancram, benefits the Gotham Light Opera Guild, Inc., which operates the Johann Strauss Atheneum, an operetta museum, 52 weeks a year on a five day a week schedule.

The ball will feature entertainment as well as dancing. The center should be contacted for details. It includes, at 6 p.m., a cocktail and dinner party in Oliver House before the ball. The dancing will feature fox trots, tangos, and waltzes. Ancram may be reached by taking the Route 7 exit from the Taconic State Parkway, north of the Red Hook entrance.

Hua Kuo-Feng New Peking Party Chairman

Mao's Widow, Three Other Radicals Are Reported 'Liquidated'

HONG KONG (UPI) — China's official news agency said today Mao Tse-tung's widow and three other radical leaders who tried to seize power following Mao's death had been "liquidated." It was not clear whether the use of the term "liquidated" meant the four had been killed.

The NCNA report also announced the appointment of Hua Kuo-feng as new chairman of the Communist party and said a plot by Mao's widow and other radicals to seize power had been crushed.

"The party central committee headed by Chairman Hua Kuo-feng adopted resolute and decisive measures to crush the counterrevolutionary conspiratorial clique and liquidated a band inside the party," NCNA said.

Diplomatic analysts and intelligence sources said the best available information indicated the four were still alive, although one was believed to have been wounded.

There have been numerous reports during the past several days that Madame Mao, or Chiang Ching, and her radical cohorts, known as the "Shanghai Mafia," have been executed. None of these reports has been confirmed.

There have been few political executions in China. Mao always adopted a policy of "cure the illness to save the patient," meaning political opponents he purged should be re-educated rather than killed.

Another indication the four might still be alive was a phrase saying that persons participating in massive demonstrations in Peking Thursday vowed to "fight to the finish against the 'gang of four.'"

The NCNA report, describing the Peking demonstrations by more than 1.5 million persons, said:

"The demonstrators enthusiastically hailed the great victory in crushing the anti-party clique of Wang Hung-wen, Chang Chun-chiao, Chiang Ching and Yao Wen-yuan and indignantly condemned the towering crimes of the 'gang of four' in plotting to usurp party and state power," NCNA said.

The NCNA listed the accusations against the four but did not give any specific details of their plot. It said they tampered with Mao's directives, opposed Mao's line on "a series of domestic and international questions" and violated Mao's basic principles aimed at preserving party unity.

The agency, in the first official confirmation of Hua's appointment, said he also was named head of the central committee's military commission as well as party chairman. It was not clear whether he still retained the post of premier.

Diplomatic analysts said they expected Hua to give up that post in the new leadership lineup, which was expected to be disclosed this weekend.

Chinese authorities have booked time for international television transmissions by satellite for 11 p.m. Peking time (11 a.m. EDT) Saturday and again on Monday at the same time.

GOP 'Winmobile' Coming

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Republican vice presidential candidate Robert Dole will visit Albany and Utica Monday evening and President Ford's brother, Tom, will travel through the state in a "Winmobile" for three days next week as the 1976 campaign nears a climax.

State Republican Chairman Richard Rosenbaum Thursday announced the visits, noting that the decorated "Win-mobile" will visit 18 upstate cities and travel 600 miles on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Local Republican candidates were invited to meet it at its stops.

Dole would visit Albany and Utica Monday evening.

He said Dole would hold an airport news conference at about 5 p.m. in Albany and make another brief stop in Utica two hours later.

The Winmobile will make stops in Schenectady, Utica, Rome, Oneida, Auburn, Seneca Falls and Canandaigua on Monday; Genesee, Hornell, Owego and Binghamton on Tuesday; and Monticello, Newburgh, Kingston and Albany on Wednesday, Rosenbaum said.

New Lottery Warning

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — State Lottery Director John Quinn has repeated his warning against buying lottery tickets from anyone but authorized vendors with a note that two dozen altered tickets have thus far been submitted for prizes.

Quinn Thursday said several of those presenting the altered tickets have said they bought the ticket from "someone on the street."

"No prizes will be paid on altered tickets and we will insure that the integrity of the lottery is preserved," he said. Quinn said an estimated 76 million $1 tickets have been sold in the first six weeks of the game. He said he had originally expected to reach the 75 million level within "10 to 14 weeks."

Kingston Isn't Taking Sawyer Gridders for Granted

By BRUCE GOLDBERG
Freeman Staff

KINGSTON—Coach Tony Badalato is a bit surprised to find his Kingston High School football team sporting a 5-0 record with virtually a clear path to its first Dutchess County Scholastic League championship.

"I expected a good season," said Badalato, "but not this good. I didn't expect us to go undefeated. I would have been happy winning three of the first four."

After last Saturday's 39-6 rampage over Poughkeepsie, Kingston is preparing to face the team that drew, 6-6, with the Pioneers in a meeting the first week of the season—Saugerties on Saturday at Dietz Stadium before a Homecoming Day throng.

Although the Sawyers are having a variety of problems in their 0-3-1 season, Badalato is not taking either them or future opponents Beacon and Arlington for granted.

"Everybody here is very hungry to win that championship," said Badalato, "so overconfidence shouldn't be a problem. But there's a danger that these teams with nothing to lose will play a super game against us and beat us."

"Yes, Saugerties is hurting in manpower," said Badalato. "What they've got is good, they just don't have enough of it. But all it takes is 11 men emotionally up to beat you. I think their quarterback (Chris Swech) is outstanding and Lars Hauck is a good linebacker and a good leader."

Saugerties coach Fred Seither, who will be able to dress out only one or two players above the allowed minimum of 20 due to injuries and defections, knows he's got a tough task in Saturday's big rivalry.

"Help!" said Seither. "Kingston is big in numbers and size, they're quick, and they've got four or five outstanding running backs."

Seither is still missing center Mike Dickman (knee) and cornerback-halfback Kevin Chiarot (hand). Tackle Dale Martin is questionable.

"I gotta give credit to the kids who have stuck around," said Seither. "They've given me the best they could."

It's been tough, too. Many of the players go both ways. Pat Harder, Rich Ryan, Doug Brandt, Dan Benjamin and either Jim Steinhilber or Bob Miller at center and either Miller or Brian Murphy as one guard make up the offensive line, and Harder, Miller, Ryan and Brandt double on the defensive line. Only Ryan, 225 pounds, is over 175 from that group.

With Swech quarterbacking, the backfield rounds out with Hauck and Ralph Grimaldi at halfbacks and Frank Tiano at fullback. The defensive backfield includes deep backs Swech, Glen Pavka, and Joe Grimaldi or Mike Kerbert, the cornerbacks are Ralph Grimaldi and either Kerbert or Jim Hitchcock, and Hauck and a player to be named later are the linebackers.

Kingston's offensive line ("The Bad Company") has proved it can block and write letters. It includes Jeff (The Doctor) Kaplan, John (Teddy Bear)

O'Meara, Dan (Fat Jack) Curlin, Ricky (Little Joe) Smith and Phil (Big Hoss) Razy. They have sprung fullback Joel Etter loose for over 600 yards in the first five games.

Tailback Cliff Lyons, the Tigers' chief man on punt and kickoff returns, broke a wrist against Poughkeepsie and is out for the season. He was also the No. 3 runner. Jimmy Brown is expected to pick up his return chores.

Kingston has outscored its opponents, 149-32, and the defense has done some devastating work along the way. It includes Matt Suppies, Alan Schmidt, John Falatyn, Razy and Jay Foust on the line, Vince Dingman, Tom Loughlin, Mike Meyer and back-from-an-injury Glen Marrus in reserve at linebacker, and Bill Stote, Clark Waters and Roy Olson in the secondary.

Bruce Schnackenberg and Joe Kivlan split the quarterbacking, with the former getting his first start last Saturday. "I don't think it matters to either of them who starts," stated Badalato.

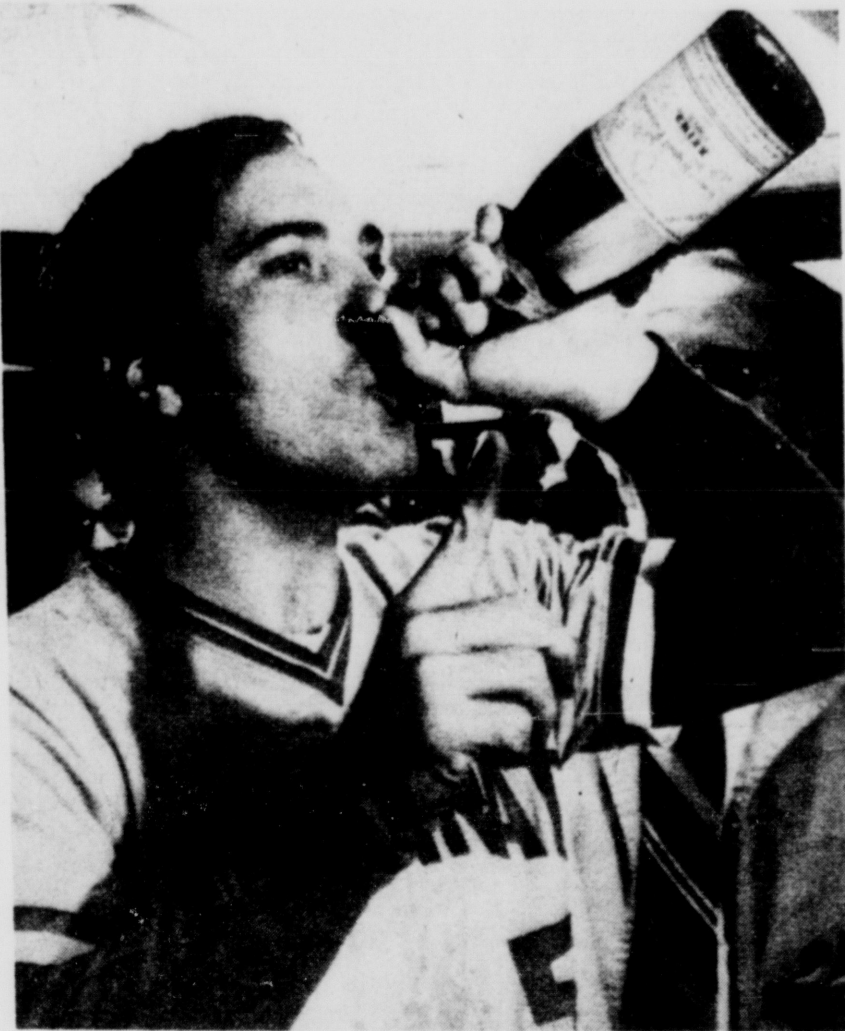

Tailback Ricky Knox remains doubtful with a broken nose. Injuries that hit four defensive starters before the Poughkeepsie game have healed and all will be ready for Saugerties.

"Last week I was really pleased with the defense," said Badalato. "We had a lot of new faces in there, but both the first and second teams performed well."

Saturday's game will be fifth meeting between these two clubs. They have split the four-game series with neither team winning at home.

That tradition seems likely to change Saturday.

Now Comes the Talk of a Reds' Dynasty

Johnny Bench toasts himself

Sparky Sings Praises Of His Man Bench

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — The bottle of champagne was there on his desk in front of him, still unopened.

Sparky Anderson didn't really care about having a drink, celebration or no celebration. All he wanted to do was talk about the character and fiber of his team, the player who he has always felt exemplified it best — Johnny Bench.

"I always said he would have more bearing on this game than Babe Ruth and I still say it," Sparky Anderson reminded those listening to him in his office Thursday night after his Cincinnati Reds had made it four in a row over the New York Yankees and become the first National League team in 54 years to win two world championships back-to-back.

"When did you first say that?" someone asked the Reds' provocative little manager. "I said it the second year I was with him, in 1971," he answered. "The man is so talented. I've never seen one man play his position the way he plays it. He's the first one on the field, he gives you everything he has and he never short-legs it. He may disagree with you, feel something you tell him is 'Mickey Mouse,' and he may make a wisecrack about it sometime, but a minute later he'll let you know he didn't mean it."

Related column on page 17

"I'm telling you the guy has something in him. He could hold this club up for millions, but he doesn't. That's class. You think if he didn't want to hold this club up, he couldn't? But he never does. That's not him."

You get Sparky Anderson talking about Johnny Bench and he sounds more like his father than his manager. Some people feel Sparky Anderson gets carried away on the subject of Johnny Bench now and then, but the Reds' manager says that's only because those people don't know his Oklahoma-born superstar the same way he does.

Against the Yankees Thursday night, Bench had the kind of night every ballplayer dreams about. He ripped a two-run homer off the foul screen in left field in the fourth inning and followed that with a three-run homer in the ninth. When it was all over, Johnny Bench was awarded the new automobile annually given to the Most Valuable Player in the World Series, his eight hits in 15 trips and .533 batting average leading everyone on both clubs.

In his enthusiasm over his 28-year-old catcher, Sparky Anderson upset a couple of people after the Reds wrapped it up. This was in the interview area, when a question directed at Anderson had to do with the difference between Bench and Yankee catcher Thurman Munson, who had a tremendous Series himself with 9-for-17 good for .529.

"I think Thurman Munson would hit .300 in the National League, but like I've said many times before, gentlemen, don't ever embarrass a man by comparing him to Johnny Bench," replied the Reds' manager.

Munson, standing off to the side, heard the remark and burned. When he got up to have his say as Anderson was leaving Munson said, "this guy talks about class. What kind of class is that to kick a guy when he's down?"

Munson had more to say later on.

"I never downgraded Johnny Bench," he said. "I'm a good ballplayer, too, and I'd hit a ton in that (Cincinnati) ballpark. I'd do a lotta things Bench don't do. I'm not gonna give him anything and say I'm second best. I'm a good ballplayer, although I'm not saying I'm better than him."

"I talked with him before the first game and told him I respected his ability and all he has done in 10 years. I told him he has been the best personality in the game but that I felt I had done a lotta things for my ballclub, too. He said some nice things about me as well."

In all fairness to Sparky Anderson, he didn't mean it the way Thurman Munson took it. He said he knew Munson was standing nearby when he said what he did in the interview area and knew Munson heard him, but he wasn't looking to slur the Yankee catcher the way Munson felt he had.

"All I said was, 'don't compare nobody to Johnny Bench' and I meant that," Anderson tried explaining afterward. "I said the same thing last year when they brought up Carlton Fisk. I said it to Steve Yeager, who I love in Los Angeles. If Carlton Fisk gets mad or Steve Yeager gets mad or Jerry Grote gets mad, that's their business. If Thurman Munson thinks what I said is a slam on him, he must agree with me. I knew he was there when I said it."

"You have to look at Johnny Bench every day to understand what I'm talking about. You ever see balls running away from him? Never. Remember when Kansas City was running their Academy and they were testing everybody for their reflexes? They tested Bench one day and the doctor told me, 'I've never had anyone on the reaction machine with the reflexes of Johnny Bench.' Honestly, I'm sorry Thurman Munson took what I said the wrong way."

Bench did not have a good year with the Reds this season. He play injured a good deal and hit only .234 with 74 RBIs and 16 home runs, but suddenly got everything together before the playoffs with the Phillies.

Back in 1969, when Ted Williams was managing Washington, Bench sent over a baseball to him because he wanted his autograph. Williams signed it and wrote: "To Johnny Bench, a future Hall of Famer."

Ted Williams had it right. It takes one to know one.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hailed by their manager as the classiest team in all sports, the Cincinnati Reds are champions of the world for the second straight year and baseball's obvious dynasty of the future.

The winners of four pennants in seven years and the first National League team since the 1921-22 New York Giants to win two straight World Series, the Reds will be even stronger in 1977 than in 1976, according to Manager Sparky Anderson.

"We'll be better next year because Johnny Bench is on the way back," said Anderson Thursday night after the Reds completed a four-game sweep of the New York Yankees with a 7-2 victory. "Bench is the best player at his position I have ever seen. The fact that he'll be better and because some of our young players should develop will make us stronger."

Anderson shrugged off suggestions of a dynasty — which, in fact already exists — with the comment: "The Dodgers will be on our backs right from the start next April...we'll have our hands full with them."

The Reds, however, bask today in the aftermath of the first four-game Series sweep since 1966 when the Baltimore Orioles did it to the Dodgers and what amounted to almost total domination of the Yankees in the four games.

The Reds were superior in every category. They outthrew the Yankees .313 to .222. Seven of their starters batted more than .300. They stole seven bases and took extra bases on Yankee outfielders at will. Their defense was elegant. They kept the pressure on the Yankees at all times. Even their suspect pitching staff performed effectively — in fact, Cincinnati relief pitchers worked a total of nine innings without allowing a run and the Yankees scored a total of eight runs in the four games. And there is that designated hitter statistic which is so embarrassing to the American League: DH Dan Driessen batted .357 compared to a composite .063 for Yankee designated hitters.

The first of Munson's four singles and Chris Chambliss' double sent the Yankees off to a 1-0 lead in the first inning. But the Reds took a 3-1 lead in the fourth on Joe Morgan's walk and stolen base, a single by George Foster and the first of Bench's homers. Bench, voted the Series' most valuable player, wound up with a .533 batting average — the fourth highest in Series history.

The Yankees inched to within a run in the fifth inning on Mickey Rivers' single and stolen base and Munson's third single

SPORTS TODAY

The Reds, who will hold their victory party in Cincinnati tonight, wrapped it up Thursday night with Bench driving in five runs with two homers and Gary Nolan and Will McEnaney combining to hold the Yankees to eight hits, including four by Thurman Munson. McEnaney, who also closed out the 1975 World Series against the Boston Red Sox, took over with two out and one on and the Reds leading by only 3-2 in the seventh inning and didn't allow a hit the rest of the way.

The victory went to Nolan, with McEnaney picking up a save. Ed Figueroa was the loser although he pitched effectively until the Reds' Series-clinching four-run outburst in the ninth.

and it was still a tight game as Figueroa went into the Reds' ninth.

Figueroa walked both Tony Perez and Driessen, however, and Dick Tidrow was brought out of the bullpen. Perez took third as Foster fled to center field and then Bench hit his second homer to give the Reds a 6-2 lead. Doubles by Cesar Geronimo and Dave Concepcion made it 7-2 and made the Yankees' ninth inning anti-climactic to the most dihard New York fan.

And so the question in baseball circles today is: "Just how good are the Reds?"

"I wanted this team to show the fans around the country just how good it really is," said Anderson after the game. "This club has more class than any other team in sports. I mean on the field...in the clubhouse...in the hotel lobby...it is the classiest team in all sports."

The extravagant claim by Anderson is understandable and yet debatable. For this Reds' dynasty team has not really performed that well in World Series competition compared to other multiple pennant-winners in baseball history.

Even with their two straight world championships and the four straight sweep of the Yankees, the Reds have won just two of four Series in which they've played and stand 12-11 in games won and lost. No fewer than 10 other multiple pennant winners have performed better in Series competition beginning with the 1936-43 Yankees and 1949-53 Yankees, who were 6-1 and 25-9 and 5-0 and 20-8, respectively, in Series play.

The list of teams which have been more successful in Series play than the current Reds also includes the 1972-74 Oakland A's, 1929-31 Philadelphia A's, 1966-71 Baltimore Orioles, 1942-44 St. Louis Cardinals, 1921-24 New York Giants, 1906-10 Chicago Cubs, 1921-28 Yankees and 1963-66 Los Angeles Dodgers.

It was a night of embarrassment for the Yankees, who won their first American League pennant since 1964 and beat the Kansas City Royals in the playoffs. Manager Billy Martin and Munson admitted as much and stopped there.

What else could they say after they said they were sorry?

UPI Photo
Martin argues in vain as Froemming, left, gives him the boot and Billy Williams holds him back

Two Versions of Ejection

NEW YORK (UPI) — Billy Martin will never win any popularity polls conducted by American League umpires. And now you can include National League umpires.

The New York Yankees manager was given the thumb in the ninth inning of the final game of the World Series Thursday night by a National League ump with his team trailing 7-2, the eventual score of the fourth game, as New York fell in four straight.

Martin was ejected by first base umpire Bruce Froemming for throwing a ball in the direction of home plate umpire Bill Deegan of the American League. Martin and Froemming had two different versions of the incidents that led up to the ejections.

"He (Deegan) threw three balls at me during the game," said Martin. "The first one missed me and almost hit Pete Sheehy (Yankee clubhouse manager), so I moved down the dugout a bit. Then he threw another one at me and again just missed, so I went down by the bat rack. Then he threw a third one at me. The batboy was going to pick it up but I said 'Let it go.' It rolled at my feet, so I picked it up and threw it at him. I missed him...if I wanted to hit him, I could have."

"That's when Bruce threw me out. I had nothing against him, it was Deegan. I tried to tell him (Froemming) what he (Deegan) was doing to me but they wouldn't listen."

Froemming had a different explanation about the ejection, saying, "I threw Martin out of the game to prevent a possible riot situation. I threw a ball out of play and watched it go into the Yankee dugout and he (Martin) grabbed and threw it on the field at Bill Deegan."

"You have a riot situation here in New York and Martin knew it."

Martin had to be physically restrained

after his ejection by the umpires handling the game, finally leaving the field and knocking over some equipment in the dugout en route to the clubhouse.

"The umpires should have been thrown out of the game for grabbing me — they can't touch me just like I can't touch them," Martin said.

The New York manager was particularly incensed about a late inning strike call by Deegan against his second baseman Willie Randolph, which "the television people told me was barely a foot above the ground."

"Deegan had no business being in this Series. He isn't even one of the 10 best umpires in our league. Nestor Chylak should be umpiring every World Series there ever is."

"All the rest of the umpiring was sensational," said Martin, "except tonight."

Reds Take It in Stride

NEW YORK (UPI) — There was little celebration in the Cincinnati Reds' dressing room Thursday night after they defeated the New York Yankees 7-2 to become the first National League team since the 1921-22 New York Giants to win consecutive World Series.

There was even a bit of a temper outburst by last game hero Johnny Bench, who won an auto after being voted the Most Valuable Player of the Series.

Bench, who had a fresh cut on his forehead from fans rushing onto the field after the game, became infuriated when he was jostled by photographers in the crowded Cincinnati dressing room and had to be restrained from going after them. He spoke softly, setting the keynote for what was a generally mild and calm celebration.

There was little shouting as the Reds left the field and went down the runway to their dressing room after Roy White fled to George Foster in left to end the game. There were some smiles and handshakes but none of the raucous behavior that usually marks championship dressing rooms.

It seemed, in fact, like a routine August victory instead of a second world title for the Reds, who some are calling the best team in baseball history.

Most of the players sat in their lockers, sipping beer or champagne and eating lasagne from small plates. Two large trays of lasagne sat on a table in the center of the room, both half empty.

Relief pitcher Pedro Borbon, wearing a towel as a turban, was one of the few who went into the traditional champagne splashing, walking deadpanned around the crowded locker room with a fizzing bottle, almost as if he was designated sprayer.

Pete Rose, who promised a major celebration after the third game victory Tuesday night, was unusually calm. He spoke only of the Reds' team play, the trademark of the club that swept three National League playoff games from Philadelphia and then took all four Series games from the Yankees.

White, the last Yankee to bat, was the first in the Reds' dressing room and he went to several of the players to offer his congratulations.

On the field, rowdy fans again stormed the field but it was nothing like last week's celebration after Chris Chambliss homered in the ninth inning to lift the Yankees over Kansas City for the American League pennant.

There were large chunks of turf ripped out, especially in the area behind second base, and all the bases and home plate became souvenirs.

But the biggest souvenir of all belonged to the Reds. That was the World Series trophy presented to them by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

NEW YORK—They are calling it the dullest World Series in years...maybe of all times. It can be dull when a team dubbed The Machine lives up to its tag.

But if you agree with the assessment that Cincinnati's four-game sweep of the Yankees was indeed "dull", don't blame Thurman Munson. He did his part. In fact he was marvelous throughout, the single most brilliant spot on the otherwise dismal Yankee ledger. And it's just as you'd expect from the likely winner of the American League's Most Valuable Player award.

Munson had nine hits in 17 trips to the plate. His six hits in a row tied a 52-year-old World Series record set by the legendary Goose Goslin in 1924. On what proved to be the final night of the year he was four-for-four. His fielding throughout was solid.

The Yankee captain had proven himself before the national press and the massive World Series TV audience...if there was any proving needed following his excellent performance in the regular season and playoffs. He had every right to carry some amount of personal satisfaction despite the disappointing outcome of the Series as a whole.

Sparky Anderson wouldn't let him be.

Sparky was meeting the press following Thursday night's clincher at Yankee Stadium when he was asked to discuss Johnny Bench, the hero of Game Four with a pair of homers and the man voted World Series MVP. Moments before Anderson had told reporters, "Thurman Munson is an outstanding hitter, one of the best we've seen all year. There's no question he would hit .300 in our league."

Kind words. But then the subject was his man Bench. "As I said in the book I'm writing, when Johnny Bench was born God came down and told his mother 'You're going to have a great ballplayer.'"

"Don't ever compare anyone to Johnny Bench," Sparky continued, "don't embarrass anybody."

While Sparky was speaking, Thurman Munson had quietly entered the interview room and was standing off to the side sipping a beer. When Anderson finished he turned to leave the room and the men shook hands. Then it was Munson's turn at the mike.

"You stated earlier today that you were embarrassed by the team's showing so far. How do you feel now and are you embarrassed?" he was asked.

Munson thought a moment, then looked up. "We played a good ball club and we played a good game tonight," he began. "Nobody likes to lose. But for me to hear that bleep that I just heard...for me to be belittled like that after this game and the season that I just had, it's something that you don't enjoy."

"I'll tell you something," he continued. "I'm a pretty good ball player. If I was playing on Astroturf I'd be the best damn player in that league. To lose four games in a row like this and then to have it rubbed in your face really upsets me. It's not nice to hear."

"I never compared myself to Bench in the papers. I can go to right field with anybody, I can hit with anybody. I've never said anything between Bench and myself but I'll tell you something, I'm a helluva offensive player."

As successful as has been Thurman Munson's career he still has it churning inside of him...that feeling that the world doesn't appreciate him. Now, finally when American League fans are conceding he is indeed a better catcher than his old rival Carlton Fisk of Boston, he runs into a hot Reds team and an even hotter Johnny Bench.

Bench was way below par this season. He hit just .234 while cracking 16 homers and driving in 74 runs.

"I had some physical problems but mainly I didn't concentrate as much as I should have," Bench said now. "I guess I just rode the crest of the rest of the team's success."

Munson, meanwhile, hit .302 with 17 homers and 105 runs batted in. He was being called baseball's greatest active catcher. Then Johnny Bench came alive.

"You can't believe what kind of relief it is for me to contribute," Bench said after his two homer performance Thursday. "This has to be the greatest night of my career. And it's a dream come true to be named MVP of the series."

What about Munson?

"He is truly a professional," Bench answered. "He was the only guy I felt we couldn't get out in this series. He showed what he could do."

And the comparisons between Munson and himself? "He can hit, he threw people out...you have to be the judge. We can't worry about comparisons. I know I do the best job I can and Cincinnati is happy with me. I respect Thurman's ability. Everything they said about him is true. He's great."

Despite the kind words from his adversary, Munson left Yankee Stadium a loser, his team beaten in four straight games and the words of the rival manager biting at his gut. He couldn't even enjoy his personal production.

"There are two ways of looking at my hitting performance," Munson observed. "Apparently I didn't do enough hitting. The self satisfaction is super. We all have large egos, and from a personal standpoint the hitting is super. But five years from now, people are going to remember the Reds won the series and not my hitting."

And they'll remember MVP Johnny Bench and that's what hurts Munson the most.

Bruins, Hawks to Bargain

TORONTO (UPI) — The Boston Bruins and Chicago Black Hawks have halted court action and agreed to try to negotiate a settlement of their dispute over superstar Bobby Orr at the end of this season.

National Hockey League President Clarence Campbell said Thursday if the two clubs cannot agree then on what compensation Chicago will give Boston, the dispute would be resolved by binding arbitration.

Orr, the most decorated player in NHL history during 10 seasons with the Bruins, signed a $3 million contract with Chicago as a free agent last June. The Bruins filed suit in U.S. District Court in Boston seeking compensation for Orr from the Hawks.

At a five-hour emergency meeting Thursday, the 18-member NHL Board of Governors adopted a resolution that "expressed extreme disapproval" of both clubs for resorting to legal action to settle their dispute.

Hawks' President Bill Wirtz and Bruins' President Paul Mooney met privately after the Governors' meeting and Campbell announced later he had received "a written agreement between both clubs that they terminate their pending litigation."

An NHL spokesman added, "Bobby Orr will play the season and at the end of the season the two clubs will agree on compensation for Orr. If there is no agreement, Mr. Campbell would select a knowledgeable arbitrator to settle the dispute."

Campbell had said earlier he felt it was necessary for both clubs to wait until the end of the current season before determining the worth of the 28-year-old defenseman, who has undergone five knee operations.

"My own feeling is that the obstacle that has caused all this difficulty from the outset has been the uncertainty of the physical condition and therefore the worth of Orr," Campbell said.

The Doctor Sets Up Practice in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The last time there was this much excitement in area pro basketball circles, Wilt Chamberlain was returning home to play. At that time, Julius Erving was bending rims as a 14-year-old in Long Island schoolyards.

But here it is, 12 years later, and Erving, the man they call "Dr. J," sat under the glare of hot television lights to discuss his new surroundings after signing a reported six-year, $3 million contract with the Philadelphia 76ers.

The 76ers, in making Erving the highest paid player in pro basketball history Thursday, paid the New York Nets $3 million—the highest sale price in professional sports history—for the right to sign the 6-6 superstar after winning a five-team tug-of-war for his services.

Erving, 26, held out after the Nets refused to renegotiate his contract and club owner Roy Boe says he granted the 76ers, New York Knicks, Los Angeles Lakers, Milwaukee Bucks and Buffalo Braves permission to talk with Erving.

It is hoped Erving can bring a National Basketball Association championship to this long-suffering franchise, the first since 1967 and the glory days of Chamberlain. But at a news conference Thursday night, "The Doctor" still had memories of New York and the team he had led to two American Basketball Association championships.

"I stated during my holdout that my first preference was to continue to play with the Nets," Erving said, adding he had had a conversation with Boe at 4 p.m. Wednesday. "He told me he was evaluating four options: hold onto his position, sit down and talk with me, trade me or sell me. I had hoped we could sit down and resolve our differences."

But, following whirlwind negotiations between 76ers' General Manager Pat Williams and Irwin Weiner, Erving's agent, a deal was consummated as of 2:50 p.m. Thursday.

"I felt my position (regarding the Nets) was a just and right one," Erving said in defending his holdout. "I was promised considerations that weren't lived up to. When training camp started, there was no indication they were going to be lived up to, and I chose not to play."

The acquisition of Erving gives the 76ers one of the finest frontcourt twosomes in NBA history. George McGinnis, who was named ABA Co-Player of the Year with Erving in 1975, mans the other forward.

Erving, however, doesn't think the unprecedented pairing will force the 76ers to come down the floor with two basketballs.

"I don't anticipate having any trouble playing with Big George or the other players," he said. "Players set a goal at the beginning of the season to win a championship. If that remains first and foremost, you shouldn't have to worry about this problem."

Coach Gene Shue said he will use Erving tonight in the season opener against the San Antonio Spurs.

Frustrating Night For Leafs' Goalie

By UPI

A night of goaltending against Montreal can be a frustrating experience.

Toronto netminder Wayne Thomas found that out in the final minutes of a 5-3 loss to the Canadiens Thursday night.

The Maple Leafs had erased a 2-0 deficit against the Canadiens and Thomas was trying to protect a 3-2 lead against the Stanley Cup champions with less than three minutes to play.

Then Thomas became the victim of Montreal's explosive scoring power which reversed Toronto's apparent victory. And it happened quite suddenly.

First Guy Lafleur scored his second goal at 17:29 of the final period to tie the game 3-3. Then, 29 seconds later, with Thomas sprawled in front of the goal battling another Montreal threat, Steve Shutt's short shot hit the Leafs' goalie and bounced into the net for the winning goal.

"I had three chances at that winning goal and my third finally paid off," Shutt said. "Thomas was just lying down on the ice and the puck hit him before going into the net."

Jacques Lemaire's empty-net goal with 24 seconds left closed the scoring for Montreal, now 7-2.

"We really only played well in the last 10 minutes of the game," Montreal Coach Scotty Bowman said. "We let down in the second period and then we had to make some adjustments. I guess it paid off."

"The turning point came in the third period when we started to use our weight and get the Leafs," Lafleur said.

Lafleur, last season's NHL scoring champion, now has nine goals and eight assists for 17 points, one better than Shutt. Though Lafleur said it's too early to think about the scoring race, he was talking about it.

"I'm happy to get all these points this early in the season," Lafleur said. "It could be a race for the championship this year between me, Steve Shutt and Peter Mahovich, but I'll veep doing my best and just let it fall into place."

The Leafs, already hurt by injuries to several key players, lost defenseman Borje Salming and Claire Alexander.

Salming dislocated his shoulder when he was checked by Mario Tremblay and Alexander was removed from the ice on a stretcher after injuring his right knee on a check by Doug Risebrough. Preliminary reports said Alexander suffered ligament damage.

In other NHL games Philadelphia defeated Chicago 5-1, Washington and Los Angeles tied 5-5 and Cleveland beat St. Louis 6-2.

In World Hockey Association games Birmingham beat Houston 8-5, Indianapolis and San Diego tied 4-4 in overtime and Quebec defeated Calgary 4-2.

Flyers 5, Black Hawks 1

Mel Bridgman scored a pair of goals and Don Saleski added a goal and two assists to improve Philadelphia's record to 3-3-1. Saleski and Bridgman were among four Flyers ordered to stand trial this week in Toronto on charges stemming from a fight in a Stanley Cup quarter-final game in Toronto last spring.

Capitals 5, Kings 5

Guy Charron deflected a Jack Lynch slapshot past Kings goalie Rogie Vachon with 49 seconds left to tie the game for Washington. Just 16 seconds earlier Marcel Dionne had put Los Angeles ahead 5-4.

Barons 6, Blues 2

Dennis Maruk scored two goals and assisted on two others to lead Cleveland. Maruk now has seven goals and six assists in seven games. Fred Ahern, Al MacAdam, Gary Sabourin and Rick Hampton also scored for the Barons.

WHA

Gavin Kirk and Peter Marini each scored two goals to pace Birmingham...Hugh Harris and Blair MacDonald each scored two goals and an assist for Indianapolis but San Diego's Kevin Devine tied the game 4-4 at 12:08 of the third period...Real Cloutier and Serge Bernier scored two goals apiece to lead Quebec.

Knicks Keep Things Moving

NEW YORK (UPI) — It may have been a rather unlikely combination that New York Knicks Coach Red Holzman inserted into the lineup in the third quarter of Thursday night's NBA opener against the Los Angeles Lakers, but no one could argue with the results.

Trailing the Lakers by 10 points, 62-52, with 7:10 remaining in the third quarter, Holzman decided to pair Jim McMillian and Bill Bradley at forward with John Gianelli between them at center.

What made the combination unlikely was the fact that McMillian and Bradley are both considered small forwards, at 6-foot-5, and weak rebounders. What made the combination successful was the movement they infused in the Knick offense.

That movement was transformed into a series of open 15-foot jump shots and a 23-8 burst which gave the Knicks a fivepoint lead at the end of the third quarter. McMillian and Bradley went on to team for 34 second-half points and New York spoiled the coaching debut of Jerry West with a 102-97 victory over the Lakers.

"McMillian and Bradley are both good-moving forwards," Holzman explained of his strategy. "Even more importantly, they're two goodshooting forwards. You have to pick your spots with them. To the guys' credit, they played well in making it work."

For McMillian, who replaced Bradley as New York's starting "small forward," it was his first regular-season appearance as a Knick. After scoring just two first-half points, he scored eight points in each of the last two quarters to finish with 18 points. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar led the Lakers with 29 points.

"To go with a small front line, as we did tonight, you've got to make sure they're doing some things," said McMillian. "For one thing, the small forwards have to play tight defense — prevent the opposition from getting the ball down low. Secondly, they have to box out well and finally they have to run, move the ball up court and get open jumpers."

For one night, anyway, McMillian and Bradley fulfilled all those requirements. Celtics 129, Pacers 122

Boston Celtics veteran John Havlicek decided to welcome the newcomer Indiana Pacers to the National Basketball Association.

Unfortunately for Indiana and the 16,178 fans who jammed into the Market Square Arena in Indianapolis to witness the first regular-season NBA game involving a former ABA club, Havlicek made it a rude greeting.

Playing with the enthusiasm of a rookie, the 36-year-old Havlicek, a 15-year veteran who was hampered by injuries last season, scored 32 points including eight in overtime Thursday night to lead the defending NBA champion Celtics to a 129-122 victory over the Pacers.

"If you don't keep right after them all the time, they'll get to you," Indiana Coach Bobby Leonard said of the Celtics. "And that Havlicek is something else. He got hot. He hit the big shot. But then again, he's been doing it for as long as I can remember. That's why he is the great player he is."

The Pacers went at the Celtics "right from the start" and opened up an 18-point, second-quarter lead. They still led by 11 at the start of the fourth quarter before Havlicek and the recently-purchased Sidney Wicks went to work.

Havlicek then proceeded to hit his next eight shots from the floor and Wicks, who took over at center when starter Dave Cowens fouled out with just seven points and 7:27 remaining, proceeded to take control of the backboards.

Boston Coach Tommy Heinsohn claimed his players had a tough time adjusting to Indiana's offense and praised the Pacers for their determination.

"I thought Indiana did a lot of good things on offense," Heinsohn said. "They are aggressive and they hustle."

"But Havlicek is still a master of the game."

Charlie Scott scored 28 points and JoJo White 23 for the Celtics. Billy Knight led the Pacers with 29 points while Wilbur Jones added 21.

In other NBA openers, Buffalo routed Milwaukee 133-112 and Houston ripped Atlanta 120-104.

Braves 133, Bucks 112

John Shumate, playing center in place of defending league scoring champ Bob McAdoo, scored 23 points and collected 15 rebounds to lead Buffalo's rout of Milwaukee and give new coach Tates Locke a successful start. Ernie DiGregorio, back in the starting lineup after a season on the bench, added 24 points and Johnny Neumann, an ABA free agent, scored 21. Adrian Dantley, in his NBA debut, scored 15 points and hauled in a game-high 19 rebounds.

Rockets 120, Hawks 104

Rudy Tomjanovich, held to six points for three quarters, scored 14 fourth-quarter points, including 11 in a row, to help Houston and former ABA Coach Tom Nissalke overcome a 12-point deficit and down Atlanta. Mike Newlin led the Rockets with 33 points while John Drew topped the Hawks with 29, all in the first three quarters.

Sawyer Girls Defeat Beacon

SAUGERTIES — The Saugerties High School volleyball team won a close match against Beacon in Thursday's Dutchess County Scholastic League contest, by the score of 2-1. The Sawyers won the first game by a convincing score of 15-6 but could not carry the momentum into the second game, as they dropped the battle 10-15.

Saugerties coach Andrea Ungvasky was not satisfied with the team's performance. "We haven't been playing well," she said. "We've just been scrambling around, trying to hit the ball."

The Sawyers were down 9-13 in the tie breaker, but were able to gather enough steam to rally to the successful finish. "We played a little better in that third game," said Ungvasky. "We kept hustling and getting the ball up after we were behind."

Saugerties, now posting a 8-2 mark, will meet undefeated Arlington in its next match on Friday.

The junior varsity had an easier time of it, downing its opponent 15-13, 15-4 in the 2-0 match win, improving its record to 9-1.

Red Hook Completes Unbeaten Season

RED HOOK — The already-champion Red Hook High field hockey team completed an undefeated season Thursday with its sixth shutout victory of the campaign, a 3-0 whitewash of Ellenville, as the regular UCL schedule came to a close.

In other league results, Pine Bush posted a 2-0 win over Ontario, Fallsburgh topped Coleman, 4-1 and Wallkill finally broke into the victory column with a 2-0 decision over New Paltz.

Patti Kowalski, the league's leading scorer, ran her season goal total to 15 with a score in each half for the 8-0 Raiders. Diane Feneroli fired the third shot into the Ellies' net.

At the other end of the field the Red Hook defense was again flawless. The Raiders have surrendered only two goals all season, one to Rondout and one to Pine Bush.

Pine Bush came away with second place in the UCL standings, in a game hampered by poor field conditions. The teams battled each other evenly to a scoreless tie in the first half and both coaches agreed that their teams were not very effective amidst the mud and the slop. "It was a sloppy first half," said Pine Bush coach Ida Gage. "We didn't play as well as we have in the past."

Two lightning goals by Michele Edwards put Pine Bush out in front late in the second half and Ontario was unable to counter. "The muddy field had an effect on the game especially in the second half. There was a pool of water in front of the Pine Bush goal and it didn't help our efforts to score," said Ontario coach Carol Okoren.

Fallsburgh pulled itself into third position in the final standings by dominating Coleman and marching to the decisive win. Bernie Rexford assisted on all four goals, streaking in on right wing and passing in front of the net. "The team played excellent hockey," said Fallsburgh coach Esther Grossman. "We outran Coleman and we were pressing all the way."

Coleman's Fran LaWare

scored to tie the game at one, three minutes into the first half, answering a goal by Maria Divita in the first minute of play. Kathy Dill made it a 2-1 half time score and then Maria Divita and Sandy Wexler each added one to put the game away. Coach Grossman cited Marie Divita for an aggressive game on offense, and Letissie Young for her defensive efforts on the back line, preventing Coleman's penetration.

Wallkill ended its season on a happy note, winning its first contest of the year. The team got first period unassisted goals from J. Coulard and D. Sladeski and then barred the door for New Paltz. New Paltz coach Dale Vincett felt that Wallkill displayed a strong offensive punch, especially in the first half. "We switched our defensive field positions in the second half which balanced the defense and spurred the offense, but we couldn't score."

The first four teams in the UCL will go to the Sectionals which are scheduled to take place on Oct. 26, 28 and 30 at sites and times to be announced.

Colbert Leads Southern Open

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UPI) — Jim Colbert, clothed in "two two-ply cashmere sweaters, a vest and rain pants," braved the cold weather Thursday and shot a three-under-par 67 to take the first round lead in the $125,000 Southern Open golf tournament.

Colbert, one of the early leaders, saw his score hold up throughout the day. Cold, wet weather and slick greens at the Green Island Country Club took their toll on his opposition.

Colbert's strongest challenge came from Mac McLendon, whose birdie putt at the 18th hole fell an inch short, leaving him in a tie for second with defending champion Hubert Green and George Archer at 68.

Six others were tied at one-under-par 69 — Danny Edwards, Gibby Gilbert, Ben Crenshaw, Artie McNickle, Jim Simons and Larry Ziegler. "I started off in two two-ply cashmere sweaters, a vest and rain pants and I was still freezing," Colbert said. "I've never played with as many clothes as I had on today. The weather was a shock."

Colbert was four-under after 17 holes, but three-putted the difficult green of the 515-yard, par-5 18th hole for a bogey.

"I put the ball on the wrong side of the hill, 25 feet above the cup, and after the putt I was 25 feet past," he said.

Colbert birdied the 4th and 8th holes to finish the front nine with a two-under 33. After five straight pars on the back, he birdied 15 and 17 before his only bogey of the day on the 6,766-yard course.

While Colbert found the weather shocking, McLendon had a different view.

Lourdes Tops Sawyer Harriers

SAUGERTIES — Saugerties High School probably wishes that the rains never ended as it was decisively out-run by Our Lady of Lourdes in a rescheduled Dutchess County Scholastic League cross country meet on Thursday.

Lourdes sent the first four finishers over the line to collect a 17-38 victory.

"Lourdes has a good club," said Saugerties coach Ron Buzon, "they're tough and strong, but I thought we would do better. We have a couple of key injuries that are hurting us and we didn't run well."

John Borsuk, Matt Paggi and Brian Leary finished in a three way tie at 16:36 as Tom McCoy crossed the line fourth to box out Saugerties' best finisher, Al Gardeski, in fifth spot, with a time of 17:07. Saugerties picked up a sixth place finish, with Tom Miller sprinting to the line at 17:20, while Ron Sickler, Robert Lachmann and Mike Franke took eighth, ninth and tenth positions respectively.

Saugerties, finishing its season with a 3-2 mark, is now preparing for the DCSL cross country meet at Ogden Mills on Saturday, Oct. 30.

Nationally Known Speed Reading Course To Be Taught Here In Kingston/Poughkeepsie

KINGSTON/POUGHKEEPSIE (Spec.)—United States Reading Lab will offer a 4 week course in speed reading to a limited number of qualified people in the Kingston/Poughkeepsie area.

This recently developed method of instruction is the most innovative and effective program available in the United States.

Not only does this famous course reduce your time in the classroom to just one class per week for 4 short weeks but it also includes an advanced speed reading course on cassette tape so that you can continue to improve for the rest of your life. In just 4 weeks the average student should be reading 4-5 times faster. In a few months some students are reading 20-30 times faster attaining speeds that approach 6000 words per minute. In a rare instance speeds of up to 13,000 wpm have been documented.

Our average graduate should read 7-10 times faster upon completion of the course with marked improvement in comprehension and concentration.

For those who would like additional information, a series of free, one hour, orientation lectures have been scheduled. At these free lectures the course will be explained in complete detail, including classroom procedures, instruction methods, class schedule and a special 1 time only introductory tuition that is less than one-third the cost of similar courses. You must attend any of the meetings for information about the Kingston/Poughkeepsie classes.

These orientations are open to the public, above age 14, (persons under 18 should be accompanied by a parent if possible).

If you have always wanted to be a speed reader but found the cost prohibitive or the course too time consuming... now you can! Just by attending 1 evening per week for just 4 short weeks you can read 7 to 10 times faster, concentrate better and comprehend more.

If you are a student who would like to make A's instead of B's or C's or if you are a business person who wants to stay abreast of today's everchanging accelerating world then this course is an absolute necessity.

These special one-hour lectures will be held at the following times and places. Kingston/Poughkeepsie Meetings

Wednesday, Oct. 20 at 6:30 p.m. and again at 8:30 p.m.; Thursday, Oct. 21 at 6:30 p.m. and again at 8:30 p.m.; Friday, Oct. 22 at 6:30 p.m. and again at 8:30 p.m.; Saturday, Oct. 23 at 2:30 p.m. only; Monday, Oct. 25 at 6:30 p.m. and again at 8:30 p.m.; Tuesday, Oct. 26 at 6:30 p.m. and again at 8:30 p.m. All Kingston meetings will be held at Howard Johnsons Motor Inn, Exit 19, N.Y. State Thruway. All Poughkeepsie meetings will be held at the Camelot Inn, 679 South Road (Route 9).

If you are a businessman, student, housewife or executive, this course, which took 5 years of intensive research to develop, is a must. You can read 7-10 times faster, comprehend more, concentrate better, and remember longer. Students are offered an additional discount. This course can be taught to industry or civic groups at "Group Rates" upon request. Be sure to attend whichever free orientation that fits best in your schedule.

Drug Co.s Must Sell Sub Lines

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission is ordering two big drug companies that have merged to sell some lines of business to maintain competition.

The FTC ruled last April that the combination of the Warner-Lambert Co., and Parke, Davis and Co., "may substantially lessen competition" in five markets — thyroid preparations, cough remedies, cough drops and lozenges, normal serum albumin, and tetanus immune globulin.

Instead of ordering Warner-Lambert to divest itself completely of Parke, Davis, however, the FTC earlier this year said it would seek remedies "sufficient to restore competition" in the markets involved.

It ordered Warner-Lambert Thursday to sell within 12 months, subject to FTC approval, its assets to a purchaser who will then become an "effective marketer" of thyroid preparations presently being sold by Parke, Davis.

The company must also sell one or more of the following product lines: Smith-Brothers Cough Drops, Throat Discs, Ambenyl Expectorant, Cosanyl DM and Nilcol.

Warner-Lambert said it was "extremely gratified" the FTC had left its basic merger alone. It said the order confirms the company's position that "the merger served the public interest by actually increasing competition in worldwide pharmaceutical marketing and research."

News Chain Profits Up

MIAMI (UPI) — KnightRidder Newspapers, Inc., says it earned 91 cents a share in the third quarter, up from 46 cents a year ago, and $2.32 a share in the first nine months, compared with $1.25 a year earlier.

Net income was $14.79 million for the quarter, up from $7.41 million. Net for nine months was $37.79 million against $20.22 million a year ago.

Of the nine-month profit, $2.02 a share was from continuing operations compared with $1.20 a year earlier. The businesses disposed of during the nine months included the WCCO radio and TV stations in Minneapolis-St. Paul, the Summit Radio Corp. of Ohio and the Niles, Mich., Daily Star. The company had capital gains on the Minneapolis and Niles transactions and a small loss on the Summit deal.

Total operating revenues for the quarter were $163.58 million, up from $143.7 million last year and those for nine months were $493.43 million against $429.28 million a year earlier.

President Alvah H. Chapman, Jr., said full-run advertising in the 32 KnightRidder newspapers was up 5.4 per cent in the third quarter from a year ago.

Average daily circulation rose 0.8 per cent in the quarter and 0.5 per cent for the nine months. Sunday circulation gains were slightly larger.

Cox Broadcasting Has 31% Net Gain

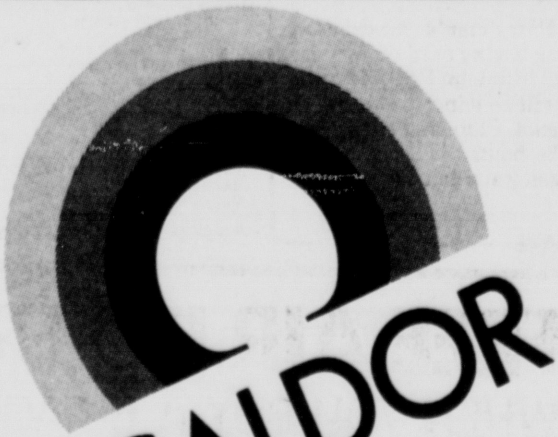

ATLANTA (UPI) — With its broadcasting division enjoying a "vigorous year," Cox Broadcasting Corp. reported Thursday net profits were up 31 per cent in the third quarter.

Cox had net income of $4.12 million, or 70 cents a share, compared with $3.16 million, or 54 cents a share, for the same period last year. Operating revenues were up 13 per cent to $30.1 million from $26.67 million.

For the first nine months of the year, net income rose 43 per cent to $14.16 million, or $2.41 per share, compared with $9.91 million, or $1.70 a share, a year earlier. Revenues were $95.02 million against $79.79 million.

President Clifford M. Kirtland Jr. said "broadcasting — which is having a particularly vigorous year — again led the company to strong gains over the same period in 1975."

He said broadcasting revenues were up 29 per cent. In addition to owning and operating 15 radio and television stations, Cox has interests in automobile auction services, data processing, business publishing and motion picture production.

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Aluminum Co. of America earned $1.13 a share in the third quarter, up from 21 cents a share a year earlier, but the company says the third quarter last year was a very depressed period in the aluminum market. In 1974, by contrast, Alcoa earned $1.42 a share in the third quarter.

Nine months profits was $3.01 a share against $1.69 a year earlier. This represented a 4.9 per cent annual return on invested capital on an 8.4 per cent yield on stockholders equity.

Net income for the quarter was $39.1 million on revenues of $776.8 million compared with $7.9 million a year ago on revenues of $586.9 million.

N. Bronx Hospital Will Open

NEW YORK (UPI) — The state Health Department has announced it is abandoning its opposition to the opening of North Central Bronx Hospital, abruptly ending a dispute that has kept the hospital's staff of 1,500 idle since July.

The state's decision to issue an operating certificate for North Central today was reported Thursday to Dr. John L. S. Holloman Jr., president of the Health and Hospitals Corp., who said he will direct New York's newest municipal hospital to be ready to admit patients by Monday.

The state has refused for weeks to allow the Bronx hospital to open, first questioning its adequacy and later opposing the HHC decision to affiliate North Central with Montefiore Hospital instead of Misericordia Hospital, the institution favored by Albany.

American Banker Is Bavarian Hero

MONMOUTH, Ill. (UPI) — In the tiny Bavarian village of Lochhausen, Monmouth banker Ray Bellis is a hero. "The super honest American" they called him in Germany.

man Bavaria's newspaper headlines when he returned a priceless gold-and-silver necklace belonging to the town's Oak Rifle Club.

The necklace — a traveling trophy for the club's leading marksmen — disappeared as World War II Army units swept through the little village in the Alps near Nuernberg. No one in Lochhausen thought it would ever be seen again.

But then they didn't know what sort of man Ray Bellis is. "Ever since I picked it up more than 30 years ago, I knew that I would return it to the proper owners sooner or later," said Bellis. "I had many offers from coin collectors, who wanted to pay upwards of a few thousand dollars."

"But I always turned them down. In the back of my mind I knew I was going to return it in the end."

A 60-year-old vice president and cashier of the Monmouth Trust & Savings Bank today, Bellis was a young GI in the 208th Field Artillery — supporting the U.S. division that overran Munich in the dying days of the war — when he came upon the necklace in 1945.

"I bought it off an infantryman who got tired of carrying it around," he said. "I honestly can't remember what I paid . . . but it was a nominal sum."

The necklace is made of rare and valuable German gold and silver coins and medallions — some dating back to the 14th century — on silver chains. It is richly engraved with animal heads and hunting symbols and weighs more than eight pounds.

Bellis brought it home when the war ended and thought off and on about trying to trace the proper owners.

A German woman, who married another GI and settled in Illinois, took a look at the necklace and identified it as an emblem of a hunting or rifle club.

"We went back to Europe four years ago as tourists, and that's when I made up my mind to really try and find the owners. But of course that was easier said than done," said Bellis.

When he returned home he wrote the West German Embassy in Washington and sent pictures along. Within three months, the embassy traced the necklace to Lochhausen.

Bellis began to correspond with the Oak Rifle Club and then shipped the necklace back earlier this year.

A Munich newspaper invited him to fly to Germany to attend the celebrations in Lochhausen when the necklace was returned.

"But unfortunately I couldn't get away," Bellis said.

He was made an honorary member of the club and has a standing invitation to visit whenever he goes to Germany.

Winter Previews In Buffalo Area

By UPI

Up to four inches of snow fell in some sections of Western New York south an' east of Buffalo Thursday night, coating highways and giving drivers a preview of the winter season ahead.

Sheriff's deputies in Chautauqua County said about four inches of snow fell in the northern section of the county, in the Dunkirk and Fredonia area. "We had some cars that couldn't make it up hills because they didn't have snow tires, but nothing serious," a deputy said.

"Cars without snow tires were in some trouble," he added.

The Buffalo office of the National Weather Service forecasted that the wintry weather would continue in Western New York today.

Somewhat of a weather rarity was reported in the Chautauqua County Community of Mayville, where deputies said it was thundering, lightning and snowing at the same time.

Another thunderstorm with snow knocked out power in some homes in Cattaraugus County. Deputies said about one inch of snow fell Thursday night and it was snowing heavily in some areas of the county.

About four inches of snow fell in the western section of Wyoming County. Deputies reported that some sanders were out on the county roads.

In Erie County, authorities said about three inches of snow fell in the southern part of the

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, OCT. 23
Your Birthday Today: An eclipse of the Sun takes place at 1:10 a.m. EDT. The Moon enters Scorpio seven minutes later. The Sun enters Scorpio at 2:58 a.m. EDT. Today's Libra and Scorpio natives both face a year of sudden turns of fortune, special opportunity for personal growth. Do your fair share: penalties for shirking work are extreme this year. Relationships must rise to higher levels if they are to last. Today's Libra natives go in for philosophic, abstract ideas; Scorpios deal with social and commercial issues.
Aries (March 21-April 19): Find out what happened to your family resources. Make no outlays despite probable insistence. Reexamining old records brings valuable insight.
Taurus (April 20-May 20): This is no time to rock the family boat. Stick around in case your help is needed. Cleaning up brings an odd harvest. Leave power tools to experts.
Gemini (May 21-June 20): You're asked or expected to contribute time and money to projects beyond your range of interest. Remain uninvolved, don't drag in outside matters as excuses.
Cancer (June 21-July 22): On a higher plane, action is toward creativity, on lower levels, gives way to whims, gambling. Emotionally loaded issues are hard to see in perspective.
Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Reflect, base choices on convictions rather than on pride or passing impressions. Loved ones didn't ask for recent external forces to have such impact.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Penny-wise long term, pound-foolish today is an illogical mood, results in heavy obligation. Expressed positively, the same influence solves old problems.
Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Today begins a month-long opportunity to increase earning powers, dispose of unwanted property to good advantage. It's a time to sell. Add to savings.
Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You're at a high in your energy cycle, can prevail in most controversy. A mild voice is more effective than shouting. Don't say things you'll regret.
Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): No matter what friends do, follow your intuition. Put aside things done by correspondence, remote control. Watch abrupt moves, people Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Luck is with you if the risk is not just wishful thinking. Changes of status, career growth can be favorable if you diligently pursue obvious courses.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Candor demands that you be outspoken; fairness requires that you leave human dignity intact. Don't take any chance where debate affects your position.
Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Your role in the current situation is not clear, so you're free to perform on a wide scale. Be genuinely interested in rescuing things from confusion. in your path.

TEEN FORUM

By JEAN ADAMS, Ph.D.

RIGHTS: (Q.) When I was 11, Sue was my best friend. Last year, when I was 12, Kathy was my best friend. This year I am 13, and Sue and I want to be best friends again, but we are afraid that Kathy will ruin our friendship. This is because last year, when I was her friend, Kathy was very jealous of Sue and didn't want me to have anything to do with her. What should Sue and I do? — Unsure in Wisconsin.
(A.) Kathy has no authority over whom you choose to be friendly with. If you let her dominate you to the point that you are afraid to have any friends besides her, you aren't exercising your rights. Sometimes we have to assert our rights.
If necessary, tell Kathy that you are free to choose your friends and you have chosen to be friends with Sue. Tell her you are willing to be friendly with her too, but not to be dictated to by her.
Sue should take the same stand. Both of you should be friendly to Kathy and reasonable with her if she is reasonable with you.
BORROWER: (Q.) I have a cousin whose mother died. She stays part of the time with us. She is quite a bit heavier than I (20 pounds), and she never brings any of her clothes. She will always say to me, "You don't mind if I wear one of your shirts or pants, do you?" Then, before I have time to answer, she will say, "Thanks."

My clothes are all out of shape and half of them are at her house. I don't think I'll ever get them back. I ask her to bring them with her when she visits, but she never does.
My boy friend says that I shouldn't put up with it. But I don't know how to tell her. — Robbed in Rhode Island.
(A.) This is a matter for your parents to handle. Your clothes are disappearing or being damaged. Your mother, as a part-time guardian, can lay down the law to your cousin about clothes and an-anything else in your home that she may be abusing. Give your parents all the facts now and ask them to take action.

(Have a problem? Write to Dr. Jean Adams, care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Tex., 77001. Every letter is read but because of the great number received, Dr. Adams cannot send personal replies.)

SHEINWOLD ON BRIDGE SAFETY PLAY GUARDS AGAINST BAD BREAK

DAILY CROSSWORD

Edited by Margaret Farrar
© 1976 LOS ANGELES TIMES

by Alfred Sheinwold
In many safety plays you give up a probable trick to guard against an improbable disaster. In tournaments you can't afford to give up a trick, but you can afford the kind of safety play that costs nothing.

from dummy East put up the ten, and Mrs. Kennedy won with the queen. Declarer led a heart to dummy's king and returned another diamond. East played low, and South won with the eight.
Now Mrs. Kennedy took the ace of diamonds, got to dummy with the ace of clubs and cashed the last diamond as her eighth trick.
To put icing on the cake, West had foolishly kept two spades and three hearts. A heart forced West to win and give up a ninth trick at the end to the king of spades.
DAILY QUESTION
Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes. You hold: ♦K32 ♠J85 ♣AQ84 ♣J86. What do you say?
ANSWER: Bid two diamonds. The hand is too strong for a raise to two spades, but not strong enough for a jump to three spades. Bid your own suit first and show the spade support later to show this in-between type of strength.
